Talk is cheaper with ntl.

With so many savings, you can afford to use the phone more.

It doesn't cost much to spread a little joy with ntl. For starters, whenever you make a national call, you only pay the local rate. All our national call charges are lower than BT's standard rates – just 3p a minute during the day, 2p a minute in the evening, and 1p a minute at the weekend. All calls carry a 4.9p connection charge.*

If you subscribe to our International Call Plan – a snip at just £2 a month – you can phone places like Australia, New Zealand and the USA for just 5p a minute.

In fact, if you make a 10 minute call to one of our International Call Plan destinations, the average saving you'll make compared to BT Together is a whopping 51%. But it gets better – the same rates apply no matter when you call, day or night.

And there's more. You can talk to other local ntl telephone customers for free every evening and all weekend.† There's the usual 4.9p connection charge, but after that you can literally talk all night, and it won't cost you a penny. It's good to spend less. Happy chatting.

ntl:

The complete communications company.

What you need to know: *3-2-1 tariff applies to local, regional and national calls only, including all calls from Northern Ireland to the Republic of Ireland. Separate tariffs apply to other calls including non-geographic calls. All calls are subject to a 4.9p connection charge. All prices include vat. †Free talktime applies to calls from your ntl telephone to friends and family who also have an ntl telephone and live in the local call area, from 6pm to 8am during the week and all weekend. All calls are subject to a 4.9p connection charge. Excludes calls to access internet service providers. For details of local call areas please call Customer Services. Calls to our call centres may be recorded for training purposes. ntl Communications Services Ltd acts as agent for associated companies including those holding telecommunications licences. All information correct as at 1 June 2001 and applicable to residential customers only. Registered office address is ntl house, Bartley Wood Business Park, Hook, Hampshire, RG27 9UP. Number 3403985.

FACTS OF LIFE

Tracey Cox thought that Australians were uptight about sex until she came to live in England two years ago. 'But then you're not as uptight as the Americans,' she says, adding that 'Australians talk about it more, although I think the English get up to more behind closed doors.' She should know. She is a distinguished sex counsellor, whose book Hot Sex sold like hot cakes. Her TV series Hotter Sex will focus on ordinary people, folk like you and me (well, maybe not me, and maybe not you either) who don't mind talking intimately about their sex lives.

'The thing is,' says Cox, 'everyone thinks they know how to do it. But then everyone can type something on a keyboard, although you're never as good as the person who's done a touch-typing course.' It is an irresistible analogy. Sex experts need to be good communicators, and Cox is one of the best. She is 39, the same age as your columnist. 'Have you had it yet?' she asks. It is a rather alarming question to get from a sex expert, but after a fleeting surge of indignation I realise that she is talking about my 40th birthday. 'No, have you?' She says she can't believe that she is about to turn 40 and somewhere along the way forgot to have children.

Nor is she currently in a long-term relationship (the good thing about interviewing sex experts is that you can ask them anything). 'I was married to a really nice guy, but he was basically my best friend. Since Hot Sex came out I've been launched into a frenzy of media stuff, so there hasn't been time.'

Getting ever bolder, I ask whether she has had flings during that time. 'A few flingettes, but I don't have one-night stands. The best time is after two or three months, when there's still a newness but you know each other's hot spots. Long-term monogamous sex is best, though. I'm sometimes accused of encouraging promiscuity, but I'm doing the exact opposite.'

Hotter Sex, Sky One, Thursdays, 10.00pm

Gray matters

All famous footballing partnerships thrive on complementary talents, and the Sky commentators Martin Tyler and Andy Gray are no exception. They are the best commentary duo currently on TV, comfortable with one other, eloquent but not fancy.

As football analysts go, Gray pulls off the impossible by being blunt yet incisive. He also has the incalculable asset of having been one of the finest strikers of his generation; indeed it reflects rather poorly on the Scotland management of the 1970s and 1980s that he was capped for his country only 20 times.

It is also easily forgotten that of all the players who have ventured south from Scotland, none has made such an impact on English football as Gray did 25 years ago. After 62 games for Dundee United he moved to Aston Villa in 1975, and promptly scored on his home debut. In March 1977 he became the first (and, so far, only) footballer to be voted Player of the Year and Young Player of the Year.

But it was with Everton that Gray reaped the reward he most deserved – a League Championship medal.

Indeed, Gray was later approached about becoming Everton manager, and thought long and hard about the offer before opting to stay with Sky. There are those of us who believe that the beleaguered Merseysiders would be in better shape had he taken over. On the other hand, poor old Tyler would have been bereft.

Andy Gray commentates on Premier League and International matches on Sky Sports, see listings for details. Turn to page 176 for full coverage of the start of the 2001-02 football season

IMPERSONATING THE KING

Now here's a piece of trivia you might find useful. Before Elvis Presley died in 1977, there were fewer than 150 Elvis impersonators worldwide. By 1999, there were 35,000. Apparently, if that trend continues, a third of the world's population will be Elvis impersonators by 2019.

A scary thought, especially as most of them will be manifestations of Elvis in his fat, white jumpsuited years, at least if the Discovery documentary Elvis Lives is anything to go by. It focuses on an Elvis impersonation contest in a hick town in Kansas and I recommend it. Especially if you want a good laugh at the likes of Junior Tally (most Elvis impersonators seem to have strange names), who has the voice but can't for the life of him grow the sideburns. And Darin Thrasher, who can grow the sideburns but for the life of him can't hit the notes.

The most successful Elvii, as they are known, are Doug Church and Paul Butler, who have disappointingly normal names but can belt out Hurt (by far the most difficult Elvis song according to all the Elvii) without any bother. Butler makes a reasonable living as an Elvis impersonator, earning around $40,000 a year. Not bad, although it would barely have been enough, when you think about it, to keep the real Elvis in pizzas and ice-cream.

Elvis Lives, Discovery, Sunday 19th, 9.00pm

Bring me Graham Norton

Graham Norton's real name is Graham Walker. Norton was his great-grandmother's maiden name, and he had to change surname because Equity already had a Graham Walker on its books. Whatever happened to the other Graham Walker nobody knows. But it's difficult to avoid Norton's rising star. He seems to collect BAFTA awards like other people collect bus tickets. It's all a far cry from the boondocks of County Cork, where he grew up in a Protestant family in an overwhelmingly Catholic area. Not that this produced any excitement. 'If I was to make a film of my life, it would probably start when I was 18,' he says. 'All I did as a child was sit at home and watch TV.'

When he finally left home, it was to study French and English at Cork University. But he quit before he finished his degree, reasoning that he could stick it on his CV anyway. He joined a hippie commune in San Francisco, and – steal yourself for a shock – became engaged to an American girl. The relationship foundered, however, with Norton's acceptance that he was gay. He returned to Cork, completed his degree, then moved to London, where in a terrifying encounter late one night he was set upon by thugs who stabbed him in the chest. He lost half the blood in his body, but managed to stagger to the home of an elderly couple. The man called the police while the woman held his hand. And the incident made him realise, he later said, 'that we don't want to die alone. I couldn't have given a stuff [I paraphrase slightly] about the old woman, but I did want her to hold my hand.'

For the next eight years, Norton worked as a waiter and lived in a tower block. But he started an act as a stand-up comic, and in 1997 got his big break, standing in for chat show host Jack Docherty. He hasn't looked back, although fame, he insists, does not necessarily improve his love life. A five-year relationship with an American TV researcher recently ended, and he now considers himself slightly over the hill. He puts it characteristically bluntly. 'If Gore Vidal and a cute window washer from Croydon walk into a bar, you know who's going to pull first.'

Watch this space

Jessica Stevenson first became aware that she could make people laugh in 1974. She was just two, and she walked into her parents' bedroom with a pair of knickers on her head – a joke, she says, that she has been using ever since.

On the other hand, her sense of humour has become somewhat more sophisticated, witness Spaced, the decidedly weird but highly acclaimed sitcom featuring, and written by, Jessica and her friend Simon Pegg. 'The first thing that drew me to Jess was that she made me laugh,' says Simon, but then 'I just thought "run a mile".' Humour is a sign of intelligence and men are traditionally scared of intelligent women because they'll find out that men are stupid and it's like, oh my God, she's gonna know!'

Still, he conquered his misgivings and the pair wrote the first episode of Spaced in just two weeks, back in 1997. It was two years before it got made, however, because Jessica was committed to The Royle Family, in which she played the diet-fixed, double fish-and-chips-fixed neighbour Cheryl.

When Spaced finally did get transmitted, it made an immediate impact. And Jessica duly won the 'Best Female Newcomer' award at the 1999 Comedy Awards. A far cry from walking around the house with a pair of knickers on her head. Or maybe, not such a far cry.

SPOTLIGHT

Celebrity gossip with Sky News' showbiz guru

NEIL SEAN

Here's some exciting news for fans of Lorraine Kelly. She's joining Sky One in September to host a brand new mid-morning show in a bid to take on daytime icons Richard and Judy, who move to Channel 4. Kelly tells me she is 'really excited by this new challenge', which will have a great mix of factual topics and celebrities popping along for a chat. The show has yet to be named but keep a look out for it.

If you loved Knight Rider (Bravo) brace yourself because the show's star David Hasselhoff is keen to revive the show, calling it Knight Rider 2000. David is also a popular singer in Germany, but he revealed his latest plans on a visit to London to discuss his role in a new musical based on Dr Jekyll and Mr Hyde.

Rumours are hot from the States that, at last, comedy star Roseanne (Paramount Comedy Channel) is ready to film her version of the top UK sitcom Absolutely Fabulous, which of course stars Joanna Lumley and Jennifer Saunders. Over in the US Roseanne has fought for years to make the show the same as it is here, but they insisted on removing the swearing, drinking and drug references. However it looks like we'll see Roseanne as Patsy Stone next year.

Scrabble fans are in for a treat, as Challenge TV are making a television show based on the popular board game. Children's TV presenter Toby Anstis is apparently in the frame to host the show later this year.

Matthew Kelly, host of Stars in Their Eyes (Challenge TV), says that he could never do his own impression of a great singing star: 'I would be too nervous - I honestly think I would pass out. These people are so brave.' So, who, are Matthew's favourite stars? 'They're all brilliant, but we did have a magical moment with Nicola Kirsch, who "starred" as opera diva Maria Callas.'

IN PRODUCTION

Global storming

Eight people will face some unique challenges in ITV2's new reality travel series. Words: Kylie Northover

If you find it a challenge getting to work each day, wait until you see ITV2's new series. In September, The Race begins - a 15-part global travel challenge, described as part gameshow, part drama.

Four teams of two, aged between 20-28, will race 360 degrees around the world, via 13 cities across six continents, in a bid to win £50,000. More than 28,000 hopefuls applied to be a part of the massive production. But The Race, which will be presented by ex-Boyzone member Keith Duffy, will be no holiday.

As Margaret Meenaghan, the series editor, explains, 'We're sending the contestants around the world on a very tight budget. It's going to be tough.'

Each team will be accompanied by a camera crew, who will film them 24-7, and are forbidden from offering advice or lending money. The teams must also follow a specific route, completing tasks along the way to earn money for their on-the-road survival.

'None of them are experienced travellers,' Meenaghan explains. 'We've even got a couple of people who have never left Britain, so it's going to be unbelievable for them. The tasks could be things like cooking a traditional meal from the country they're in, or trying to get their faces on the local equivalent of Richard and Judy in Peru. There won't be anything like standing on a plank for 20 hours [Survivor-style].

'This show is about people finding out about different cultures, and about themselves. It's not a travelogue, it's more about people and how they cope when thrust together with another person, far from home.'

'It's almost like Big Brother, but on a global scale,' she adds.

The progress of the contestants, who have undergone intensive training with army experts and counselling with psychologists, will be captured by The Race cameras, their own video diaries, e-mails and webcasts.

'This is going to be hardcore travelling,' Meenaghan says, 'And we're going to capture all the highs and the lows.'

DOUBLE TROUBLE

Meet the 10-year-old Cramp twins (pictured): Wayne likes to create dangerous machines and torment his brother; Lucien is sensitive and heavily into knitting. The sibling rivalry kicks off in The Cramp Twins, on Cartoon Network in September.

REACH FOR THE STARS

So, you think Popstars was addictive viewing? Prepare for another sure-fire audience pleaser as Starmaker hits ITV2 early next year. Thousands of fame-seekers will be trying their luck at hitting the big time, with one major new star of the future - whatever their talent may be - unveiled at a live finale later in 2002.

HERBERT'S DUNE GOOD

Described as one of the best science fiction adaptations ever, the miniseries of Dune (based on the book by Frank Herbert) is set to screen on Sci-Fi this autumn. While David Lynch's 1984 film showcased Kyle MacLachlan, Francesca Annis, Sting and Patrick Stewart, the TV adaptation stars William Hurt and Saskia Reeves.

THE HIGH LIFE'S GOTTA HOLDEN 'ER

Amanda Holden plays a con artist in Sky One's autumn drama Now You See Her. Accompanied by EastEnders' Joe Absolom, Holden's character pays for her expensive tastes with schemes and scams, until she finally meets her match.

There are currently 35,000 Elvis impersonators worshipping the King in their own special way. If the number keeps growing at the present rate, more than one third of the world's population will be Elvis impersonators by the year 2019.

CAN'T STOP THE MUSIC...

Twenty years ago, three letters changed the music world forever – MTV. MTV UK presenter Paul King reflects on the past two decades of music television.

Interview: Kylie Northover

MTV PROMISES SOME BIG surprises this month as the worldwide music channel celebrates its 20th birthday.

As one of MTV UK's longest serving presenters (he became a VJ back in 1989), former pop star Paul King remembers the early days of the music channel, before it was the household name it is today.

'After my career in pop, MTV seemed like a great idea. I'd spent a lot of time in the US, where the power of MTV was very much embedded in the culture, so I understood the concept, which was very new here,' King says.

'Back then, people weren't used to seeing pop stars presenting TV – it was uncool. But it was a great move for me, and I still love it,' he says.

King jumped straight from being a chart-topper himself to interviewing some of the music world's biggest names.

'It was a huge learning curve for me, but I found the interviewing easy,' he says. 'Over the years I've interviewed just about everybody, including Bowie, Robert Smith, Tina Turner, Phil Collins – it'd be hard to name my favourite, although Sting was great, and, of course, Bowie.'

But it's not just meeting the stars that King loves about his job.

'With MTV I got to see places I'd dreamed about seeing as a kid, like Eastern Europe and Russia,' he says. 'We got to visit Czechoslovakia and Yugoslavia, as they were then. MTV was a huge phenomenon in places like that. We went to Poland, Hungary, Romania, and as MTV presenters we were treated like rock stars!'

'MTV has become so big in the last 20 years, that it's a global brand now, and it's still breaking boundaries. In India, it's like the Beatles, absolutely massive. There's never been anything like it, and the Indian presenters are superstars.'

The challenge for the channel now, King says, is to keep it fresh for the next 20 years. 'When MTV started, the world it occupied was so completely different. The pace of life today is so much faster, I can't even imagine what we'll be doing in 20 years time.'

1981: MTV launches in the United States on 1 August, at 12.01am. Their first video is Video Killed the Radio Star by Buggles. Within six months, MTV has more than two million subscribers.

1982: The channel takes its first trip to London for the premiere of Pink Floyd's The Wall.

1983: MTV premieres Michael Jackson's innovative, 14-minute video Thriller.

1984: The first ever MTV Video Music Awards are held at New York's Radio City Music Hall.

1985: MTV broadcasts Live Aid live to the American public.

1986: The music channel has become famous for giving away the biggest, craziest prizes – this year it was a 100-acre town in Texas.

1987: MTV Europe launches at 12.01am on 1 August, switched on by Elton John in Amsterdam. The first video shown on MTV Europe is Dire Straits' Money for Nothing.

1988: With more than 3.5 million subscribers, MTV Europe celebrates its first anniversary, and expands to include Germany, Belgium, Switzerland, Greece and Norway.

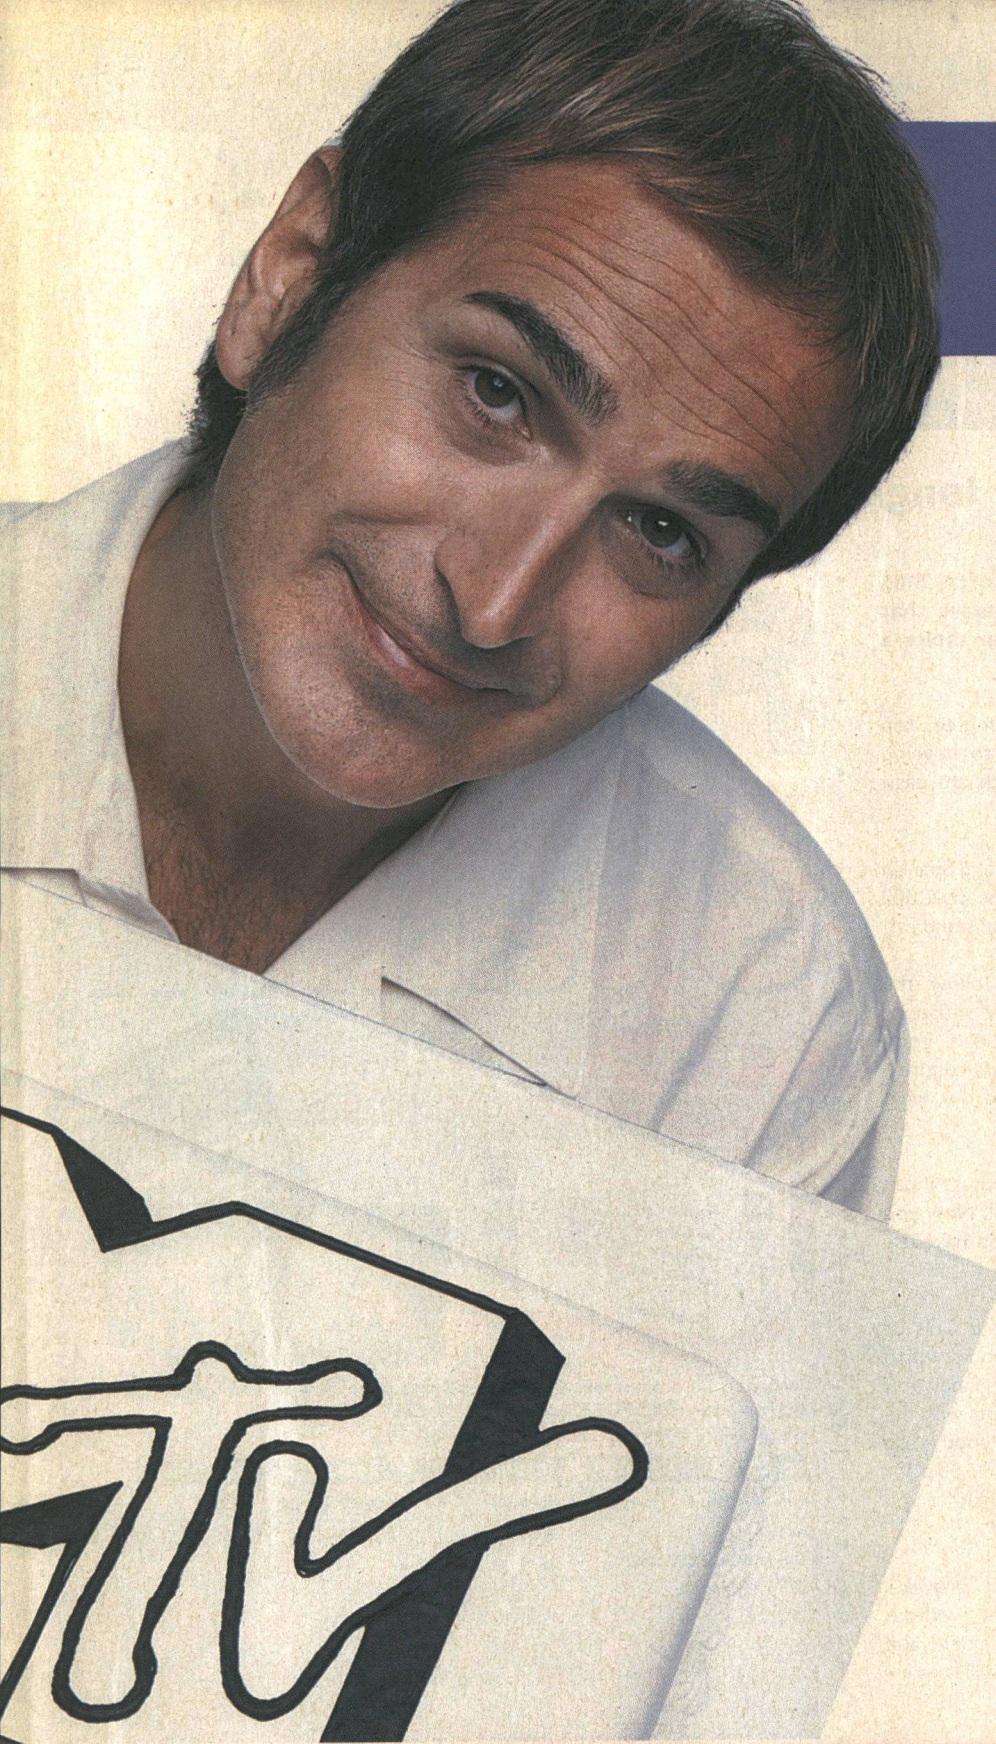

1989: MTV Europe broadcasts from behind the Iron Curtain, covering the Moscow Music Peace Festival. The same week that the Berlin Wall comes down, MTV Europe launches in East Berlin.

1990: A British competition winner takes home Madonna's Gaultier stage outfit featuring the conical breasts.

1991: Now available in 25 million homes, MTV Europe becomes the first non-Soviet channel to broadcast 24 hours a day in Russia.

1992: Long before Big Brother, MTVUS introduced the world to the fly-on-the-wall idea with its reality soap opera Real World, following seven strangers brought together to share a house.

TODAY'S MTV UK PRESENTERS ANSWER OUR QUESTIONS ON THE COOLEST JOBS ON TV

When did you decide you wanted to be an MTV presenter?

'I used to watch the channel in the UK in 1996 and say, "I could do that." I started working for MTV in 1997.'
Richard Blackwood

Who was the band/performer/video you remember most?

'Michael Jackson's Billie Jean – I absolutely loved that video,' Danann Breathnach says. 'I didn't quite know what the subject matter was, but I was totally intrigued – all the darkness, dry ice, neon signs, women in bed!'

What's the funniest thing that has happened to you on air?

'I did a live show the day I had two wisdom teeth out and had a spit cup at the side of the couch,' says Edith Bowman. 'When the guests came in that was quite entertaining, as I regularly had to wash my mouth out with salty water and spit it into my cup. Charming!'

Who are the top five acts (alive or dead) you would like to see involved in celebrations if you could book them?

Lisa Snowden: 'Everlast and Carlos Santana, Snoop, Tu Pac, Dr Dre, Madonna.'

Danann Breathnach: 'At the Drive In, Mansun, Helena Christensen, Mum and Dad.'

Richard Blackwood: 'Janet Jackson, Tu Pac, Outkast, Usher and Lady Dynamite.'

What has been the highlight of your time at MTV?

'Interviewing Samuel L Jackson'

Richard Blackwood

'My first pay package!'

Danann Breathnach

2001

1993: MTV Europe launches in the former Soviet Union.

1994: MTV launches a brand new music channel for the UK, VH1, targeting an older audience of music lovers. The channel is officially switched on by the Artist Formerly Known as Prince.

1995: Madonna hosts the world's biggest pajama party live on MTV to launch her album Bedtime Stories.

1996: Heavy rockers AC/DC give their first TV performance in more than 20 years to VH1.

1997: MTV UK and Ireland launches as a stand-alone channel. The first video shown is a specially edited version of the Lightning Seeds' Three Lions.

1998: MTV launches M2, the first TV channel to be launched on the web.

1999: The Red Hot Chili Peppers perform for the first time in Russia in Moscow's Red Square. It is broadcast live to more than 296 million households in 83 countries.

2000: MTV launches the controversial but hugely popular comedy show Jackass, featuring Johnny Knoxville and co-created by Spike Jonze, director of Being John Malkovich.

2001: MTV launches its 30th channel, MTV Dance, dedicated solely to dance music. MTV Europe now broadcasts to more than 250 million homes.

Where do you think MTV will be in 20 years time?

'Even bigger. Possibly on terrestrial TV,' says Richard Blackwood. 'Still at the forefront and ahead of the competition when it comes to music television,' says Edith Bowman. 'And hopefully still employing me!'

What surprises are in store for the 20th birthday celebrations?

'They're informing me on a need-to-know basis ... to stop me from spoiling it!' Danann Breathnach

all Talk no hands

Linguaphone audio only language course

Linguaphone are proud to announce the launch of all Talk, the revolutionary new French and Spanish courses that have made classrooms, text-books and grammar tables a thing of the past.

With the backing of the Academic Advisory Committee, top linguistic experts have used the latest techniques to develop unique audio-only French and Spanish courses which are easy, entertaining and can be used anywhere.

Based on natural learning techniques, all Talk French and Spanish can provide you with an active working vocabulary of nearly 2,000 words - roughly equivalent to A Level+ conversational standard.

Through an engaging soap-style storyline, you'll follow the experiences of a British businessman through real-life situations on his first visit to France or Spain. You'll gain a good understanding of French or Spanish social and business culture - and the entertaining plot will keep you keen to find out what happens next!

all Talk is perfect for busy people with active lives because it can be used anywhere - train, car, gym - even by the pool! Now you don't have to find time to learn French or Spanish - just make use of the time you already have.

The course is split into two Levels, each including 8 CDs or Cassettes packed in a stylish carrier. With over 18 hours worth of recorded dialogue, Level 1 is perfect if you're a beginner or if your French or Spanish is a bit rusty, whilst Level 2 starts with the story so far and is ideal for people who already have a good grasp of the basics. And it's amazing value at just £49.90 + p&p for Level 1 or 2. What's more, if you buy both Levels together you can save £9.90!

all Talk is unique - nobody else offers a course that provides anything near this level of language or entertainment without books, reading or writing. This is an easy, cost-effective and enjoyable way to learn French or Spanish - you really will love it - or your money back!*

To order, simply complete the coupon and post it today. You can also fax or email your order (please include a daytime telephone number), visit our website or call our credit card ordering service. All orders will be delivered within 7 days from receipt.

Cool cultivator

With green fingers in his genes, garden designer and writer Andy Sturgeon is determined to prove just how hip horticulture can be. Interview: Lucia Green

THE SIGNS WERE THERE from an early age. Andy Sturgeon had a garden plot before he was eight years old and learned to prune a tree as soon as he could climb it. 'I had two brothers and a sister and we all had our jobs to do around the garden.' It was good grounding for the boy who went on to become one of the country's new breed of 'designer' gardeners.

'My dad was a bank manager and commuted daily from Surrey to London. I knew I didn't want that kind of life. I wanted to work outside. My mum loved gardening and when the family was grown up she went to work in a garden centre, so I think we got our love of plants from her.' (His brother Neil is also a landscape gardener). 'I don't think you can design a garden until you know about plants, but you never stop learning,' says Sturgeon, who has written two garden blockbusters – Planted and Potted, and is now working on his third, Gardens for Men.

He gained a silver gilt medal for his garden at this year's Chelsea Flower Show – a chic mixture of pale wood, steel hoops, rusting metal containers and foxgloves. He is now presenting the second series of The Weekend Gardener.

'There's no cheating – what you see is what you get. The researchers went round and videoed the gardens and their owners and I watched the shortlist. The idea is we tackle a problem in a part of someone's garden in a way that is both practical and within a fairly tight budget. The punters had to be prepared to get stuck in to help and I roll up my sleeves too – I can't help it!'

The 13 fabulous, and achievable, designs include transforming a small garden with a boring concrete path into a Tuscan walled garden with terracotta paving and pencil cypress trees; making an ugly WWII air-raid shelter the base for a wonderful New England wooden covered garden seat – 'We shall probably paint it

Not-so-common or garden: Andy Sturgeon's medal-winning design skills are showcased in The Weekend Gardener forget-me-not blue,' and helping a viewer who is terrified of walking on grass because of her phobia of slugs and creepy crawlies, to finally enjoy her garden.

'We ripped up her lawn,' explains Sturgeon, 'and used some bricks that were lying around to build a curvy path down the garden. The bricks were bluey coloured, so I planted silver-leaved and blue flowering plants on either side such as French lavender, cistus, and sea holly. I also planted herbs in the gravel – our slug-free area.'

British gardening has undergone a dramatic change from the days when Sturgeon worked through horticultural college and then did a stint at the RHS gardens at Wisley. 'We were rooted in our garden history when gardens were big and garden experts were used to landscaping for the aristocracy,' he says.

Then along came Ground Force and Alan, Charlie and Tommy, with his decking, to open our eyes to possibilities for our own patch. 'In fact,' says Sturgeon, 'decking has been around in America for years. We've just taken rather a long time to catch on!'

Our attitude to gardening has changed. 'The stigma has gone, gardening is no longer an old person's hobby,' says Sturgeon, 38. 'Now young people are into it with their new ideas and vigour. Propagating is out, landscaping is in. Today's garden has to fit around us, our lifestyles.' So if you are busy and don't want to spend the weekend weeding, then low-maintenance gravel and bark is in. But Sturgeon puts his foot down on those coloured glass chippings. 'I think they are vile. I believe passionately in recycling, so I love using natural things like wood and stone.'

As for his own garden, he has just moved into a three-storey Victorian terrace in Brighton with his partner, Sarah, and 21-month-old son, Luke. 'I bought the house because it has a large garden, but I haven't decided what to do with it yet. I'll wait and see where the sun settles. It's always a good idea.'

Making Leeway

Iain Lee made a name for himself last year by walking out on The 11 O'Clock Show. Now he's back on TV and he's going Mental!. The lofty ex-stand-up considers comedy with Nick Griffiths

HE'S TV'S IAIN LEE. You may remember him from the likes of Thumb Candy (video-games documentary) and The 11 O'Clock Show (satirical entertainment, once home to Ali G). He's 6ft 4in tall and he hosts Mental!, Play UK's new pop quiz with a twist: the contestants ask the questions, Lee simply supplies the links and the wit.

He explains: 'Initially, [the producers] wanted a trendy Anne Robinson: a twentysomething "get-outta-here, you're-rubbish" type thing. I didn't want to do that, though the first couple of shows are a bit like that. With Anne Robinson, you know she's playing a character; with me, I just looked like I was being unpleasant.'

Lee is sweet-natured, but then he was raised just outside Slough – home of the Mars Bar – in Berkshire. 'I wasn't posh at all, but because I was tall and thin and spoke all right, I used to get beaten up. I lived in fear of the rough kids. One of my claims to fame is that I got beaten up by this tough bully from our area, who later murdered someone in Slough.'

He studied drama at college, where he first tried stand-up comedy because he 'wasn't very good' at acting. 'My catchphrase was "I'm not very good but I'm keen" and that summed up the act, really. Lee is terribly self-deprecating.

What was the high point of his stand-up career? 'Wow. I don't think there was a high point. There were lots of mid-points,' he offers helpfully. We discuss the science of comedy: whether there is a formula behind what is funny.

'I've got quite a strong formula in my head, which I can't put into words. Well, I daren't or everyone would be copying it and using it and being as successful as I've been.'

When pressed, Lee relents: 'All right. Something that isn't funny is the word pants. Anyone who says "pants" should be kicked in the face; I find that the laziest thing. And the word monkey isn't particularly funny. Is that any help: x=pants+monkey? I can't give you an example of something that is funny, I'm afraid.'

Halibut? 'No, fish references aren't funny.' Cupboard? 'Cupboard's all right. Doily's quite nice.'

Iain Lee is best known for fronting Channel 4's The 11 O'Clock Show, alongside Daisy Donovan. He cracked gags (often near-the-knuckle or crude), interviewed celebrities and filmed vox-pops, in which he enjoyed twisting people's words or throwing them off-guard with strange questions such as: 'What do cows drink?'

Famously, a week before the fifth series went out, Lee quit. 'As it got closer to doing the pilot, I became aware that I didn't find the material very funny. All the writers had changed and it was coming from a new direction. Then I got the script and it was really awful. So I told the producer and he was going, "Iain, don't worry, we know what's funny."'

Lee did film the pilot, which, he says, 'died a death. It was an hour of silence. So the next day I phoned my agent and said I couldn't do it.' Not that he even had other work pending. Here was a television presenter displaying moral fibre.

'Channel 4 couldn't quite understand it: "But we've put you on telly, you should be really grateful." And I was like, "I am grateful, but I can't do that." It was quite scary and I didn't work for Channel 4 for a while, although it has picked up recently.'

Indeed, Lee is currently writing a pilot gameshow, which may find its way on to E4. And for terrestrial Channel 4, he will be fronting The First Television Show, in which celebrity guests discuss their first crush, first car, first record, that sort of thing.

Meanwhile, there is Mental!. Six contestants ask each other pop questions, given set categories, and are whittled down until one winner remains. 'The rule is that you can ask anything, as long as it's music-based, and our studio experts [imagine Countdown's Dictionary Corner, only less tidy] confirm the answer,' says Lee.

'If contestants asked anything too intricate the audience could get restless: 30 minutes to check an answer is quite a long time. But there were different levels of knowledge. One person asked, "Name the four Beatles?" which was pretty funny.'

FINAL VOYAGE

As the USS Voyager completes the last leg of its journey, Thomas Simpson gathers together the final thoughts of its crew

It's taken them six years, but finally they may be about to get home. The crew of the Federation Starship USS Voyager make their final journey this month on Sky One, as the climactic Endgame marks the end of the fourth Star Trek franchise. Watched by almost nine million viewers in America, Endgame answers some of the questions fans have been asking through the series, but leaves others open.

The cast themselves are, on the whole, glad that the journey has ended. Robert Beltran, who has played the ship's second-in-command, Commander Chakotay, throughout the series, comments on the relaxed atmosphere on the set during the filming. 'I think most of us are looking forward to moving on to the next thing in our careers,' he points out, 'even though it will be sad leaving. It's a great crew and the cast get along very well, but it's pretty much time to move on.'

Garrett Wang, long-suffering Ensign Harry Kim, echoes that thought. 'It's going to be sad, of course, when we wrap and we won't be coming back for an eighth season, but it feels good because I know I'll be able to move on and do something else.'

Captain Janeway herself, Kate Mulgrew, has expressed her desire to return to her first love, the stage, while Ethan Phillips lost his make-up as Talaxian cook Neelix to play a jazz musician on stage at the Pasadena Playhouse in the weeks immediately after production wrapped. Many of the cast have had an opportunity to direct episodes of the series. As a result, Robert Duncan McNeill (pilot Tom Paris) has been taken on to the prestigious Fox Searchlight programme, which encourages new directors, while his on-screen wife, Roxann Dawson (chief engineer B'Elanna Torres), is currently preparing to helm an episode of the new Star Trek series, Enterprise.

The cast have been aware of the lack of viewer loyalty that the show often suffered. 'There's a real excitement about our show because the series is finishing,' McNeill commented recently. 'I think initially, when we first came on air, Deep Space 9 was on, and we were always sharing the audience with them. The Next Generation had a movie out during our first season, so it's only been during the last year or two that we've really felt the fans' attention fully for the first time.'

The series was changed irrevocably at the start of the fourth season when the pixie-like character of Kes (played by Jennifer Lien) was replaced by the pneumatic form of Jeri Ryan as the then-Borg, Seven of Nine. For better or worse, episodes tended to feature her more than the other crew, to the extent that some of the cast members became vocal in their comments on stage at the regular Star Trek conventions held worldwide.

The series settled down for its final two years, producing some of its strongest work in its last season, being unafraid to tackle contentious issues, albeit within the Star Trek framework.

The new series, Enterprise, started shooting almost immediately after Voyager had wrapped, but as it's set 200 years earlier, it's unlikely that any of the cast will make appearances. However, Robert Picardo, whose interest in science fiction was piqued by his portrayal of the holographic Doctor, believes that there is still a future for Star Trek. 'I think that perhaps taking six months to a year with no new Star Trek will help stimulate interest again,' he says, 'and I also think that our exciting finale this season is going to bring extra interest to the Star Trek franchise.' EG

Five Things You Didn't Know About Voyager

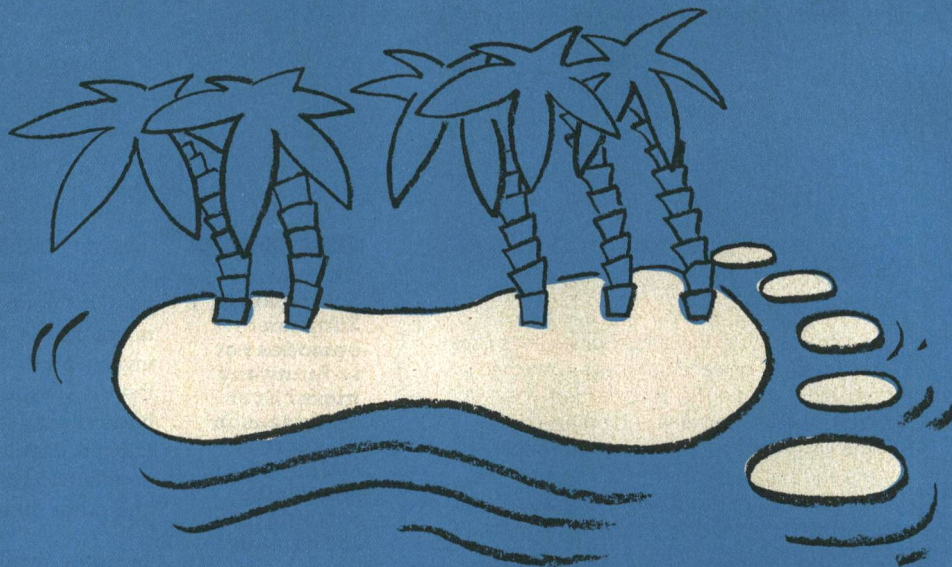

1: Captain Janeway's original first name was Elizabeth. It became Nicole when Genevieve Bujold was cast as the Captain, then finally changed to Katherine when Kate Mulgrew replaced Bujold in the centre seat shortly after filming began on the pilot. Other actors considered were Linda Hamilton, Patsy Kensit and Nigel Havers.

2: Robert Duncan McNeill was originally going to reprise his role as Nicholas Locarno from Star Trek: The Next Generation. However, the producers felt that the character was past redemption, so they created Tom Paris for McNeill to play.

3: Alternative titles considered for Voyager include The Journey Home, Galaxy's End, The Return and Outer Bounds.

4: Longtime Star Trek fan King Abdullah of Jordan made a cameo appearance in the episode Investigations when he visited the Paramount lot in early 1996.

5: Ethan Phillips, who plays Neelix, appears as the maitre d' on the holodeck in Star Trek: First Contact.

LETTER OF THE MONTH

Now and never again

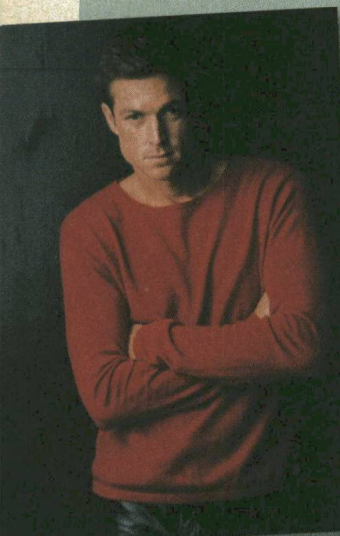

I am astonished at the lack of coverage given to the outstanding series Now and Again (whose Eric Close is pictured), its one and only season reached a heart-in-mouth, never-to-be-resolved ending on Sci-Fi on 12 June. This wonderful programme took the tired body-swap idea and propelled it to another level with its witty, clever and original scripts and superb performances from the cast. I am astonished that such a well-crafted creation was not rewarded with a second series in the US.

Perhaps if Now and Again hadn't had the misfortune to arrive on UK screens in the same week as the hugely over-hyped and unoriginal Dark Angel, it may have received the recognition it deserved. As it is, only those loyal fans who caught each episode will know what others have missed, and are left wondering whether Michael, Lisa and Heather escape, or what havoc the Eggman will wreak.

Chris Rogers, e-mail

Congratulations, you've won £50! A Sci-Fi spokesperson responds: 'Now and Again was very popular with our viewers and will be shown again later this year. Unfortunately, the decision to cancel the series was not made by us – we loved it too!'

FIRE OF THE DRAGON

Well, it's summer and the birds are singing so it must be time for Cartoon Network to replace new Dragonball Z episodes with reruns! Just like when we had to wait for the conclusion of the Frieza Saga, we will now have to wait for the final 30 episodes of the Cell Saga.

The most galling part of this is that Cartoon Network hasn't learnt from last year – cutting a show mid-season is an appalling way to treat viewers. Why not tell us when it will be back so we don't have to write in and complain all the time?

Oh, and please don't tell us that the episodes need to be translated before they can be shown – Cartoon Network USA finished showing the Cell Saga in December!

Terry Crewes, e-mail

when we feel we have enough ready to justify launching – normally about 50 episodes or a complete saga, if possible.

We launched the Android Saga in April, followed by the Cell Saga. Because the Cell Saga is very long, we split the Saga into two parts – the Cell Saga and Cell Games Saga. The latter will run later this year, along with the Buu Saga.

Cartoon Network USA has aired more episodes than in the UK because their versions come from a different company. We cannot use the US versions, as they would not comply with ITC guidelines. We understand DBZ fans' frustrations with this situation and it is certainly not our intention to annoy and upset them. Cartoon Network has invested a lot in bringing DBZ to the UK. We are delighted by the huge success and loyal following that has developed, and will continue to bring toon fans DBZ and other great action shows.'

3RD ROCK STOPS ROLLING

What happened to the sixth series of 3rd Rock from the Sun on Paramount Comedy Channel? It suddenly disappeared from our screens in what appeared to be a rushed finale, with no answers about what will happen next. Will there be another series? With no adverts (to my knowledge) to say that the series was ending, I think many fans will be disappointed by the way the show was handled. Please could we have some information about this well-loved and hilarious show?

Cate, Manchester

A Paramount spokesperson replies: '3rd Rock from the Sun finished at the end of series six and unlike the first episode of a new series, the last is rarely advertised. Unfortunately, Carsey-Werner, who make the show, have no plans for another series, but Paramount will be showing the series again sometime in the near future.'

SIMPLY NOT THE SIMPSONS

Is it me or are the new Simpsons episodes not so funny any more? Ever since season 11 there seems to be something missing in the comedy. There is roughly one joke every five seconds in an average episode and because of this not all the jokes will be hilarious.

There have been many hilarious episodes of The Simpsons, made three or four years ago, but the newer episodes, such as New Kids on the Block and The Great Money Caper, fail to impress.

Perhaps it's because Matt Groening is also working

We have received many letters on this subject, Terry. Here's Cartoon Network's response: 'Not all of the 291 DBZ episodes exist in the English language yet, so they have to be edited to UK TV standards and dubbed into English. We are trying to ensure the new versions are produced as fast as possible, and air them on Futurama, or maybe they have run out of funny ideas. Whatever it is, they must change it otherwise it will soon become unpopular and have a similar fate as Rugrats.

Oliver Mandel, e-mail

THE FELICITY FACTOR

Thank you, ITV2, for showing yet another series of the fab Felicity. Will you show the next series?

Tracy, e-mail

An ITV2 spokesperson replies: 'The good news is that there is a fourth series in production in America and we will be showing it next year. In the meantime, ITV2 will continue to run episodes on Saturday evenings at 7.00pm and weeknights at 6.30pm.'

GOOD MEDICINE

The Flying Doctors [daily on UK Gold] is my favourite show. Actresses Liz Burch and Lenore Smith are gorgeous; the medical side of things is good; the Australian outback is shown to good effect and there is comedy relief.

G B Seaman, Maidstone

FAMILY GUY'S ADULT HUMOUR

Two cheers for the return of the wonderful Family Guy on Sky One. Third cheer withheld as the episodes I've seen so far have suffered from the censor's blade, missing out jokes and punch-lines. My teenage son fills in the gaps from the uncensored versions he's seen on the internet. I appreciate that it is the adult humour that has been cut, presumably because of the 6.30pm scheduling. Any chance of the episodes being screened unedited later in the evenings?

Clint and David Gibson, e-mail

A Sky One spokesperson replies: 'As you yourself appreciate, programmes are sometimes edited so that the content is appropriate for the time slot. New Family Guy episodes will be on Sky One at a slightly later time, 7.30pm, on Sundays from mid-August, and each episode will certainly be looked at again in light of the new time slot.'

THE LEXX EFFECT

When will Sci-Fi be showing the fourth series of Lexx? It's been over a year since the last series was shown and, like other dedicated fans, I'm starting to get restless!

Ese Michelle, e-mail

Sci-Fi tells us that the new series of Lexx will air early in 2002, Ese.

SAVE OUR STARGATE

There was an official announcement on 8 June on Showtime in the USA that the fifth season of Stargate SG-1 will be the last. Many fans are saddened greatly by this, and have created a campaign to try and show the producers of this show the light. It's called Save Our Stargate (SOS). Previous campaigns have worked, such as the one for Roswell to have a second season. The website for this campaign is:

<http://sos.woolfden.net/index.html>

Gwyneth Ann Brain, e-mail

The new fifth series of Stargate will start on Sky One from September. Sky One says: 'It does appear that this may be the last ever series, and as big fans of the show ourselves, we would hate to see this happen. We are hopeful that the series may yet be picked up by another US network.'

BREAKING NEWS ON CONVENTIONS

I noticed your reply to the July letter about Stargate conventions. There have actually already been two conventions, and the third one is going to be held from 2-4 November this year!

Wolf SG-3 will include special guests such as Don S Davis (General Hammond), Teryl Rothery (Dr Fraasier) and Alexis Cruz (Skaara/Klorel). It's at the Heathrow Park Hotel in London, and more info is available on the Wolf Events website: www.wolfevents.co.uk

BOOTY CALL

Only from America can you get such fascinating far-out television. Sky One's Boot Camp is compulsive viewing with its mind-conditioning but humorous gameshow concept. It really shows the lengths some people will go through to get fame and fortune and what torture they'll endure to be a winner. A small idea for next year's show – how about a celebrity version with first in line The Weakest Link's Anne Robinson? I wonder who would crack first, Anne or the drill instructors [below]!

EDITOR'S NOTE

The whistle sounds, the crowd roars – it's August and FOOTBALL's back. We've signed Alan Curbishley, manager of Charlton Athletic, to write a regular column for Cable Guide. Each month, Alan will give readers an insight into the world of the FA Premiership and professional football in general.

Sky Sport's Jeff Stelling rates your team at the start of the season and gives thoughtful analysis of their chances. Also in your Cable Guide this month we join MTV for the channel's 20th anniversary celebrations, we meet up with Andy Sturgeon, the Weekend Gardener, plus there's a sneak preview of ITV's innovative new travel challenge programme, The Race.

Vicki Butler-Henderson

With the British numberplate system about to change, it might be time to get yourself something more personal, says Vicki, though you could be paying big money to get just what you're after

UK HORIZONS

Catch Vicki Butler-Henderson in Clarkson at Full Throttle, UK Horizons, Sunday 4th, 4.00pm

COME THE FIRST DAY of September, the vehicle numberplate system will change.

Currently, the format goes something like Y123 ABC, but that'll be replaced by a registration plate more along the lines of BD51 SMR.

Weird, isn't it? A bit too European for my personal tastes, but then I doubt the Driver and Vehicle Licensing Agency are exactly bothered about my views. The DVLA is offering the choice of having a Euro symbol and GB identifier on the plate itself, though, should you feel the need to embrace our neighbouring countries.

Anyway, this new lettering and numbering system works like this – the BD part of the above example identifies in which region the car was first registered. This is called the 'local memory tag'. In this case, it's Birmingham. The London area has a multitude of two letter combinations but always starts with L. Yorkshire's pair of letters start with a Y. I'm sure you're getting the picture.

The two digits represent the age of the car. So, 51 will mean the car was first registered between September 1st 2001 and February 2002. The following batch of new cars, from March 2002 to August 2002, will carry the number 02, and so it will alternate every six months (52, 03, 53, 04 etc) until the whole system changes again!

The last three letters of the new format are merely random. There's no meaning behind their configuration.

If you do want some meaning behind your plate, then you can cough up for a personalised one. You can pick them up at special auctions, through a newspaper's classified section and also at some car shows.

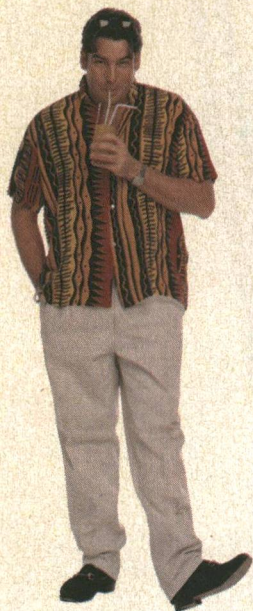

One of the most – how shall I say – humorous personalised plates belongs to racing driver Steve Parish. And I'm sure you can figure out what the following can be read as: PEN 15.

Anonymity is definitely not the name of the game when you fit this sort of plate, but drawing attention to you and your motor isn't the only 'attraction'. If you drive an older car and don't want to let the neighbours know just how old it is, then a personalised plate will disguise the truth. Some can even be good investments. The most expensive plate to be sold was K1 NGS – it went for £231,000!

Other notable plate sales include 1A, which went for £200,000, COL 1N went for £77,000 and G1 LLY went for £87,500.

But I'm sure this last one is only ever seen once every year, flying through the skies – 25 DEC. It went for £7,500, with a couple of reindeer thrown in.

Think beyond the boring bangers and burgers this summer as Ross offers some tips on how to get the best from your barbecue

WHAT IS IT ABOUT the idea of flame to food that brings the hunter-gatherer in us men straight to the fore when barbecuing is mentioned? The plume of smoke that curls up from the coals is a tonic to any jaded urban dweller, whether experienced at home or at the beach.

The first rule of the barbecue is to be prepared. Cooking over flames or red hot coals is a recipe for disaster. It's really important to wait until the coals are grey and dusty, so the heat's even and not too fierce. Similarly, any excess marinade should be brushed off, as sugar and oil will cause flames that will, again, burn your food. Marinades add flavour and keep the food moist. The great British banger bastes itself from the inside but can also be marinated, though keep it sticky to glaze the skin. Honey and mustard is a favourite, but try oyster sauce or marmalade dissolved with a little whisky.

Marinades should include acid to tenderise (eg lemon or lime juice) or ginger or papaya, which have enzymes to break down the meat's proteins, oil to moisturise and aromas to flavour. Strong flavours are best, and think in 'flavour sets' – olive oil is not a Chinese flavour, but sesame is. The best herbs are the hard ones – thyme, rosemary and sage; the delicate flavours of chives, chervil and parsley are quickly dissipated. For a last-minute flavour boost, why not add wet branches of herbs to the coals for aromatic smoke. Oak and mesquite wood chips are also brilliant, but soak them so they smoke and don't burn your food.

The choice of coals or gas is unimportant really; the fifth of the population that have chosen gas are better off now than they were. Good gas barbecues now have baffles, which burn the released juices to produce a charcoal flavour. I prefer charcoal or wood for big parties but it needn't be a grand affair. Disposable barbecues are surprisingly good and last longer than you think, adding loads of fun to a day on the beach or by the river.

One of the best things to barbecue are bone-in chicken thighs; the skin is a built-in baster, the bone transmits the heat and you can take them in any direction in terms of flavour: Moroccan, Japanese or Italian. My other favourite is a leg of lamb, butterflied out and marinated with walnut oil, oregano and juniper – mmm, Provence! A slug of saffron flavoured, home-made mayonnaise and you're transported to France.

Vegetarians often get a rough ride at a barbecue as it's usually a meat-fest. The thought of a veggie kebab is rather sleep-inducing, even if well-made, but what about a mushroom burger? I love the big flat mushrooms cooked gill side down, then sandwiched with soft goats' cheese and herbs and cooked on the outer sides. Great for carnivores, too, as are baked potatoes, halved with the mash scooped out and flavoured with bacon, cheese and parsley, put together and wrapped in foil. Five minutes each side and you're laughing!

Do remember that with summer temperatures food poisoning is more prevalent, so separate the cooked and raw meats and keep the food cool until needed. Salads should be dressed at the last moment; they can be kept in sealed boxes with ice pads to keep them crisp.

Don't let the concept of a barbecue become daunting. It's been happening since the Iron Age and is a great way to catch up with friends. Enjoy.

KIDS' INFORMATION PAGE

→ Meet Josh McGrath – 19-year-old college student at Del Oro Bay University and extreme sports enthusiast. He seems like a typical teen – he likes snowboarding and skydiving, he worries about getting his work done and he's got a girlfriend. But as the bionically-enhanced international secret super agent Max Steel, he also protects the globe from world domination.

THE MAX-FACTOR

→ Josh's double life all began when he visited his foster father's company, N-TEK, a secret anti-terrorist organisation disguised as a technical development company. Through a freak accident he was exposed to experimental nano-probes. Without Transphasik Energy shots, these nano-probes will die, and their host (gulp!) dies with them. It's not all bad though. Josh now has superhuman speed, strength, reflexes, sight and hearing, plus the unique ability to blend in with his surroundings, making him the perfect spy. With his teacher, Rachel Leeds, and child prodigy 'Berto Martinez, the trio make up Team Steel. They take on mercenary organisations like DREAD, which competes with N-TEK to develop new technologies, but only for evil means.

Using state-of-the-art animation, Max Steel takes over the airwaves on Sky One as part of the channel's summer line-up. cg

Win
We've got 10 Max Steel watches up for grabs. To win, tell us the name of Max Steel's other identity.

Answers on a postcard with your name and address to: Cable Guide/Max Steel competition, PO BOX 2176, London W1A 5TW. The first 10 correct entries drawn at random will win. Closing date: 31 August 2001. Full Cable Guide rules on page 18.

Zoiks! There's no escaping Scooby-Doo this summer – as the gang continue filming for their new movie, out next year, they also take over Cartoon Network for a whole week. So get ready for a Scooby-thon as every single episode will be shown. Considering 10 television series were made, that's quite a lot of viewing! There will also be Scooby films, including Scooby-Doo on Zombie Island, Scooby Goes to Hollywood and Scooby and the Reluctant Werewolf. Rest assured, no mystery will be left unsolved – thanks to those meddling kids! cg

→ Have you been watching the new episodes of My Best Friend Is an Alien?

If you have been following the antics of Tim Thompkins (Daniel Clark) and Pleskit (Ryan Cooley, pictured above with Panou, aka bodyguard Robert McNally), his blue-haired, purple-skinned alien best friend, who makes dubious noises when he's happy and floats 3m above the ground when he's sad, you may wish you could talk Pleskit's Hevi-Hevian language. Here's a few words fans should know.

Hevi-Hevi – Pleskit's home, which is a moon not a planet.

Sphegnutksheer – an alien antenna for Hevi-Hevians.

Infogoo – the most powerful super-computer in the galaxy, but it still can't give answers without being sarcastic.

Glorcup – a unit of time, which is equivalent to one Earth day, i.e. 'Your glorcup will come.'

Weezel gorp – trouble-maker, i.e. 'You no good weezelgorp!'

Florples – chances, i.e. 'Only one in 18,000 florples.' cg

Who's that girl?

With The Amanda Show about to premiere on UKTV, Kip catches up with its host, Amanda Bynes

Amanda Bynes has been trained by world-famous comedians, she's just made her feature film debut (in Pay or Play) and she's got her own variety show – not bad, considering Amanda is just 15 years old. Quite clearly, she's not your average teen.

'I did stand-up comedy at The Laugh Factory [a comedy club] in Los Angeles when I was 10 and then I got on All That on Nickelodeon. After four seasons I started The Amanda Show,' she explains.

It's been as simple as that in Amanda's eyes. What she neglects to say is that she's been doing stand-up since she was seven! And with advice from the likes of Richard Pryor and Arsenio Hall (Martial Law, Coming to America), she's had the best training.

'I am such a fan of both of them,' she says of Pryor and Hall. 'Getting to meet them and having them coach me was a great feeling.'

Of The Amanda Show, which features sketches, short films and live performances, she says: 'One of the things I like most is how many different characters I get to play.'

A born mimic, Amanda impersonates about a dozen different characters on her show, including Judge Trudy who's out for kid-justice and Amanda's very own number one fan, Penelope Taynt.

While her characters may be slightly less than emotionally balanced, Amanda herself is no drama queen. 'My life hasn't changed because of the show,' she insists.

'I'm lucky that I have an awesome family and friends that keep my feet on the ground.' What a gall!

The Amanda Show*, Nickelodeon, Monday to Thursday, 5.00pm; weekends, 9.00am

'I'm lucky that I have an awesome family, and friends that keep my feet on the ground'

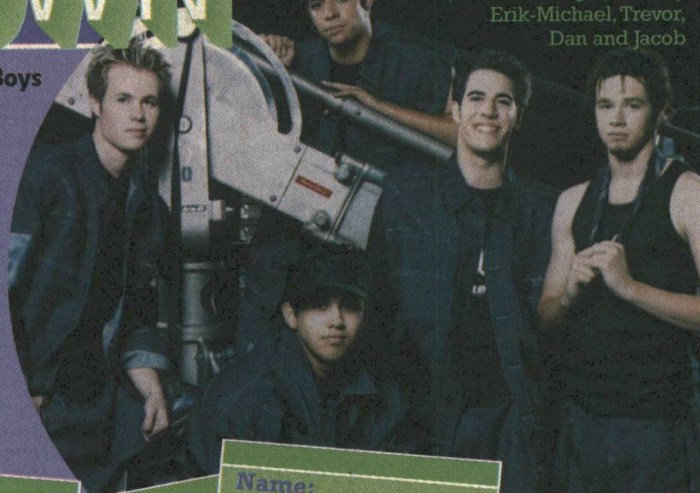

Oooooh O-TOWN

When Lou Pearlman, the man behind the Backstreet Boys and NSync, decided to form a new boyband, a TV camera crew followed his every move. The result was Making the Band, a real life series that saw the creation of O-Town.

As Trouble brings you the much-awaited second series this month, Kippers get the chance to check out the progress of Erik-Michael, Trevor, Jacob, Dan and Ashley. But don't expect the boys to be having an easy time of it. They're working 18-hour days, plus they've got the added worries of the critics and an awkward cash-flow problem. And on the personal side, Ashley's struggling with his feelings for his ex-girlfriend, Erik-Michael is contacted by his biological father for the first time and Jacob's pride is wounded when his lyrics are stripped from a song. It's a turbulent time for the O-Town boys.

Regain your flat tummy...

(... and go down 3 dress sizes)

The 5-minute flab-busting Powertek XL Tummy Roller effortlessly fights the 5 causes of a fat, flabby, ugly lower abdomen.

Excess fat IS NOT the main cause!

New research from the USA has revealed why men and women, from the age of about 25, tend to get a fat, flabby tummy. It is also now known how this can be avoided. There are actually 5 causes of a fat tummy. And these 5 causes were shown in the research to have nothing at all to do with excess fat.

Don't hide yourself away! You won't flatten your tummy by suddenly going on a starvation diet. It has also been shown that most well-known tummy exercises are of practically no use at all. All these don't work. Why? Quite simple – because the tummy muscles are muscles which are not used during everyday activities. They are "inactive" muscles. This is the reason why the tummy muscles cannot simply be reactivated, unlike the arm muscles, for example. When you raise your glass, you automatically use your biceps – so they get shaped and strengthened! Everyday movements strengthen "active" muscles. But until these new findings it wasn't possible to strengthen and shape "inactive" muscles – and that includes the tummy muscles – by conventional methods and exercises. So bulging tummies and "spare tyres" had to be hidden under tent-like clothing.

THE 5 MAIN CAUSES

The 5 main causes of a flabby, bulging tummy are:

① The peculiarities of the abdominal anatomy with countless different muscles, which make it impossible to target and train each tummy muscle by conventional methods.

② The lower tummy muscles are smaller than the upper ones.

③ Other insufficiently developed and little-used muscles cause bad posture. So the tummy simply "hangs" down.

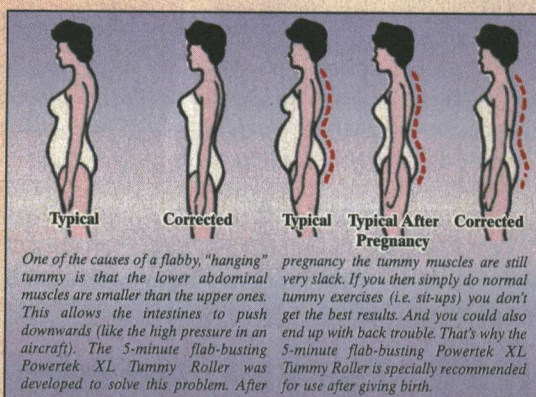

④ Bad and shallow breathing habits.

⑤ During pregnancy women often compensate for their "bump" by faulty posture (leaning backwards, rounding the back). And after giving offering this exercise equipment. With one single exerciser costing hundreds of £££s, membership and entrance fees can be rather exclusive too.

A SENSATIONAL INVENTION

But now here's a new device, a sensational invention which allows even "inactive" muscles to be exercised. The 5-minute Flabbirth they keep this posture out of habit.

A new device was invented not so long ago in the USA which can help restore flatness and muscles to the tummy and give you a slim, model-girl waist. But until recently it was only available to a select few celebrities like film stars, models and TV announcers or presenters who belonged to fitness clubs

Busting Powertek XL Tummy Roller.

The 5-minute flab-busting Powertek XL Tummy Roller is an American development which has been highly successful on the other side of the Atlantic!

The 5-minute flab-busting Powertek XL Tummy Roller brings nothing but benefits! The device has caused a revolution in fitness circles – especially where tummy training is concerned.

Results from the 5-minute flab-busting Powertek XL Tummy Roller are amazing. In just one month you can reduce your tummy measurement by up to 15 cm. And your muscles get rock-hard!

Day tripper: Visit one of the UK's dungeons, Sea Life centres (below), or the Wedgwood factory (right)

Your ticket to a great day out

Here's an opportunity to enjoy an exciting and educational day out. Just choose from a variety of Sea Life centres around the country, the London Dungeon, the York Dungeon, the Edinburgh Dungeon or the Wedgwood Story, and this voucher entitles one adult to unconditional free admission.

The European network of Sea Life centres combine to form the world's largest group of aquaria, enjoyed each year by over five million visitors.

Every Sea Life centre showcases a vast diversity of sea creatures, ranging from shrimps and starfish to sharks and stingrays. Sea Life is a leading figure in international marine conservation through its SOS Conservation and Rescue projects. Learn all about the pioneering work with seahorse breeding, seal rehabilitation and shark rescue.

All Sea Life centres feature a shop, restaurant and Quiz Trail for all the family to enjoy, and every centre focuses on key marine issues.

The dungeons in London, York and Edinburgh offer a macabre journey back in time to explore the darker and bloodier events of history. Modern technology, spectacular theatrical effects and talented live actors bring the experience to life. Visitors don't just witness history – they take part in it.

A brand new £4.5m visitor experience, the Wedgwood Story based at the world-famous Wedgwood factory in Barlaston, near Stoke, makes an ideal day out for all types of visitor. And for the first time at any major pottery, every visitor will have the chance to tour the factory floor.

SNATCH 18

JASON STATHAM, VINNIE JONES, BRAD PITT
99 MINS PREMIERE

A diamond thief, a Russian called Boris the Blade, a Gypsy boxer, sundry small-time hoodlums, pawnbrokers and illegal fight promoters cross paths to comically complicated effect in Guy Ritchie's audacious, highly entertaining follow-up to Lock, Stock and Two Smoking Barrels. It's very much more of the same thing – with the addition of some strong American faces to the cast, the structure and shooting style having been honed in the previous film – but serves to remind that Ritchie does the Brit gangster caper so much better than any of his contemporaries and would-be imitators. Cheap thrills and smashing performances all round, including Vinnie's turn as hard man Bullet Tooth Tony.

See page 45 for our Vinnie Jones interview

BATS

LOU DIAMOND PHILLIPS, DINA MEYER, LEON, BOB GUNTON
88 MINS

Lou Diamond Phillips is the small-town sheriff battling genetically mutated killer bats after a government experiment goes wrong. Scientist babe Dina Meyer lends a hand in an 'eek!' experience made for fans of berserk creature features such as The Birds and Arachnophobia.

THE BEST MAN

TAYE DIGGS, NIA LONG, MORRIS CHESTNUT, HAROLD PERRINEAU Jr
116 MINS PREMIERE

College pals, reunited for a wedding, discover one of them has written an embarrassing novel based on their own real sexcapades. Can the best man author keep it from the happy couple and get them up the aisle? Saucy romantic comedy, buoyed by charming performances.

BIG MOMMA'S HOUSE

MARTIN LAWRENCE, NIA LONG, PAUL GIAMATTI, JASCHA WASHINGTON
95 MINS

FBI agent Martin Lawrence takes a leaf out of Eddie Murphy's book, getting his knickers in a twist, finding romance and hurling himself energetically into cross-dressing antics. Assigned to protect a federal witness and her son, he goes undercover impersonating a fat, cantankerous, Southern granny known as Big Momma.

CHICKEN RUN

Voices of MEL GIBSON, MIRANDA RICHARDSON, JANE HORROCKS
81 MINS

A wacky, witty and exciting animated feature set on a Yorkshire chicken farm in the 1950s. Plucky hen Ginger (Julia Sawalha) and Rocky the rooster (Mel Gibson) hatch a plan to rebel against the evil farm owners, Mr and Mrs Tweedy. The eccentric geniuses at Aardman Animations (of Wallace and Gromit fame) throw every possible fowl pun and PoW movie staple into the mix as Rocky and Ginger lead their fellow chickens on a great escape. Inspired lunacy that will have you cheering from your seat.

A CLOCKWORK ORANGE

MALCOLM McDOWELL, PATRICK MAGEE, ADRIENNE CORRI, WARREN CLARKE
132 MINS

Stanley Kubrick's most controversial film, recently returned to UK cinemas after being withdrawn by the director himself following its initial release, is an electrifying adaptation of the Anthony Burgess novel. Delinquent youth Alex (Malcolm McDowell) gets his kicks from porn, Beethoven and leading his 'droogs' on rampages of 'ultra-violence'. But the brutality that ensues as part of Alex's punishment and rehabilitation is just as scary in this scathing satire of society's corruption and sadism. Kubrick's arresting vision is dated by detail, but the picture of aimless louts alleviating their boredom in mindless viciousness is chillingly topical. Highly stylised, this still packs more punch than its imitators.

women and the local colleens retaliate by importing Spanish fishermen to the big dance. The pub philosophers' lesson is that what you need is sometimes under your nose.

DEUCE BIGALOW: MALE GIGOLO

ROB SCHNEIDER, WILLIAM FORSYTHE
85 MINS

American TV funnyman Rob Schneider stars in a knockabout comedy co-executive produced by Adam Sandler. He's a hapless fish tank cleaner, housesitting disastrously for a suave male escort when his need for cash prompts him to try the gigolo business himself - with surprising success.

DRIVE ME CRAZY

MELISSA JOAN HART, ADRIAN GRENIER
88 MINS

Melissa Joan Hart (TV's popular teenage witch, Sabrina) stars in this romantic comedy as a perky-but-serious high school princess whose prom date schemes backfire when she's stuck with the grungy rebel boy next door (cute Adrian Grenier, below with his co-star). Her partner, of course, turns out better than she thought when she sets about giving him a fashion makeover.

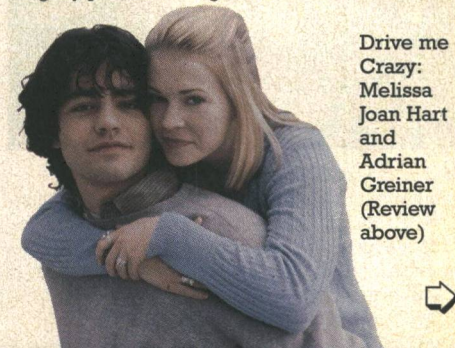

12

ESSEX BOYS

SEAN BEAN, CHARLIE CREED-MILES, ALEX KINGSTON, TOM WILKINSON
98 MINS PREMIERE

Sean Bean is venomous as an East End hoodlum in a British gangster thriller of sexual jealousy and a drug-deal gone awry, inspired by the real-life discovery of three bodies in Epping Forest. Alex Kingston, in a break from ER surgery, provides the glamour.

THE FLINTSTONES IN VIVA ROCK VEGAS

MARK ADDY, STEPHEN BALDWIN,
KRISTEN JOHNSTON, JANE KRAKOWSKI
88 MINS PREMIERE

The prehistoric prequel, in which swinging Bedrock bachelors Fred and Barney meet their mates and enjoy a chaotic holiday in the glitzy gaming resort. Their dating antics are challenged by Wilma's hoity-toity mum (Joan Collins) and rival suitors, like Alan Cumming's outrageous 'rock' star.

FORTRESS 2: RE-ENTRY
CHRISTOPHER LAMBERT, AIDAN REA
89 MINS PREMIERE

In this action sci-fi sequel, Christopher Lambert is back in maximum security – but this time it's an orbital prison 42,000km above Earth. Cue the ingenious devising of gadgets and escape plans in order to save his wife and son back on terra firma.

GLADIATOR

RUSSELL CROWE, JOAQUIN PHOENIX,
CONNIE NIELSEN
149 MINS

The sword-and-sandals epic stages a comeback in Ridley Scott's Oscar-winning blockbuster. The all-conquering general Maximus (Russell Crowe) is betrayed, sold into slavery and becomes a gladiator. The thrilling spectacle of realistic combat, a cast of thousands and colossal Roman sets are seamlessly woven around a personal story of love, tragedy and destiny.

GONE IN 60 SECONDS

NICOLAS CAGE, ANGELINA JOLIE,
GIOVANNI RIBISI, ROBERT DUVAL
114 MINS PREMIERE

Retired legendary car thief Cage is forced to recruit a gang with automotive expertise (bet you wish you had a mechanic that looked like the gorgeous pouting Ms Jolie) and hit the streets to boost 50 luxury cars in just one night to save his feckless brother from a criminal client's death sentence. Cool classic cars, a key-swallowing canine, hectic energy and an entertaining ensemble – including unlikely duo Robert Duvall and Vinnie Jones – enliven the vehicular heist action.

HIGH FIDELITY

JOHN CUSACK, JACK BLACK, IBEN HJELJE
110 MINS PREMIERE

Nick Hornby's blokey novel transfers (though in the hands of British director Stephen Frears) with surprising ease to Chicago, where record store owner Rob (the soulful Cusack, pictured) ponders his history of failed romantic relationships, disputes musical tastes with his slacker anorak mates, and obsessively compiles Top Five lists of everything. It's a funny and insightful comedy of man versus women, with choice cameos from Catherine Zeta-Jones and Tim Robbins, a scene-stealing Jack Black, and great tunes, too. Turn to page 41 for feature on John Cusack

I DREAMED OF AFRICA

KIM BASINGER, VINCENT PEREZ
110 MINS

Spectacular landscapes take the breath away in Hugh Hudson's romantic drama. Kim Basinger stars in the true story of Kuki Gallmann, an Italian socialite who, with her husband (Vincent Perez), began a new life farming in Kenya in 1972, where she became a conservationist.

INTO THE ARMS OF STRANGERS

JUDI DENCH (narrator)
113 MINS PREMIERE

Interweaving personal testimonies and archival footage makes this award-winning documentary a memorable, poignant account of persecution and courage in the Kindertransport exodus during WWII. In the nine months prior to the war, 10,000 Jewish children left behind their families, their homes and their childhoods to escape Nazi persecution as refugees in Britain. The stories are told by survivors and bring home the horrors of the Holocaust.

KEVIN & PERRY GO LARGE

HARRY ENFIELD, KATHY BURKE,
RHYS IFANS, LAURA FRASER
80 MINS

TV's highly popular, obnoxious 15-year-olds, Kevin (Harry Enfield) and Perry (Kathy Burke), scored large on the big screen. Here, the whingeing, spotty youths, desperate to lose their virginity, storm Ibiza, club themselves to death, and gross out the locals with more tasteless jokes than half a dozen American lowbrow comedies combined. Noël Coward it ain't, but smutty, politically incorrect oafishness doesn't come much more cheerfully, with Enfield and Burke in shameless and triumphantly disgusting form.

MISSION: IMPOSSIBLE 2

TOM CRUISE, DOUGRAY SCOTT
119 MINS

A $125m budget, a starry cast and action director John Woo combine for a mission planned to show off Tom Cruise at his most glamorous and handsome. Easier to follow than the first film, M:I-2 sees agent Ethan Hunt called in to stop the sale of a mysterious substance stolen by a rogue agent.

RETURN TO ME
DAVID DUCHOVNY, MINNIE DRIVER,
CARROLL O'CONNOR
112 MINS PREMIERE

When architect David Duchovny's cherished wife is killed in a car crash, he donates her heart for transplant. A year later he falls for bubbly Minnie Driver, unaware she was the organ recipient. Potentially sentimental tosh is a polished, good old-fashioned treat, with Duchovny and Driver delightful together.

STIR OF ECHOES
KEVIN BACON, KATHRYN ERBE, ILLEANA DOUGLAS
96 MINS

Kevin Bacon is superbly believable in a creepy, ingenious supernatural thriller. He's a working guy who is hypnotised for a prank and discovers it has awakened psychic abilities. Suddenly able – like his little boy – to see ghosts, he is haunted by the tragic spectre of a girl who needs him to find her corpse and expose her murderers. Bad timing saw it overshadowed on its release by the similarly themed The Sixth Sense, but this adaptation of Richard Matheson's novel is gripping and atmospheric.

STUART LITTLE
MICHAEL J FOX (AS THE VOICE OF STUART LITTLE), GEENA DAVIS, HUGH LAURIE
82 MINS

Smash hit family fare, with a cute and funny screenplay, adapted from an American children's classic by M Night Shyamalan.

TEACHING MRS TINGLE
HELEN MIRREN, KATIE HOLMES
91 MINS PREMIERE

Horror comedy from Scream writer Kevin Williamson. Evil history teacher Mrs T (Mirren) is all that stands between an ambitious teen (Dawson's Creek star Holmes) and a college scholarship. Taking the woman hostage is not, perhaps, the best way to pass her class, but the battle of nerves that ensues is outrageous.

THOMAS AND THE MAGIC RAILROAD
PETER FONDA, ALEC BALDWIN,
MARA WILSON
86 MINS

Everybody's favourite tank engine and his friends have to outwit villainous diesels, enlist a little girl to save a fabled railway line, and restore Mr Conductor's (Alec Baldwin) magic sparkle. Those old enough to remember Peter Fonda as a leather-clad biker in Easy Rider will be agog at his turn as Grandpa.

THREE TO TANGO
MATTHEW PERRY, NEVE CAMPBELL,
DYLAN McDERMOTT
93 MINS PREMIERE

Friends star Matthew Perry seeks to ingratiate himself with prospective client McDermott – who erroneously thinks he's gay – by agreeing to spy on his mistress, Neve Campbell. Naturally, he falls for her himself, with all the attendant complications of his camp masquerade.

WHATEVER IT TAKES
SHANE WEST, MARLA SOKOLOFF,
JODI LYN O'KEEFE
91 MINS, PREMIERE

Teen high school reworking of Cyrano de Bergerac sees West pining for an out-of-his-league sexpot while coaching a pal through the tricky business of courting the smart girl next door. A good young cast of teenaged TV veterans appeal in this likable effort.

WHITEBOYS
DANNY HOCH, DASH
MIHOK, MARK WEBBER, PIPER
PERABO, EUGENE BYRD
85 MINS, PREMIERE

A naive Iowa white boy dreams of becoming a gangsta rapper, but when a new boy in town, who is black, introduces him to the 'hood he gets a very rude awakening in this fish-out-of-water tale. The film features a hip-hop heavy soundtrack and cameos from Snoop Doggy Dogg and Dr Dre for authenticity.

X-MEN
HUGH JACKMAN, PATRICK STEWART,
IAN MCKELLEN, FAMKE JANSSEN
PREMIERE 100 MINS

The latest blockbuster comic book franchise kicks off in striking style. Human evolution has produced a mutant minority who have a special X-factor in their genes, giving them assorted, astounding super-powers. Led by telepathic good guy Professor Xavier (Stewart), the

X-Men (and women) protect the rest of mankind from the vengeful schemes of evil Magneto (McKellen) and his awesome henchpersons. Magneto seeks to even things out by trying to speed up the human mutation process, thereby making everyone equal. Bryan (The Usual Suspects) Singer directs spiffy action set-pieces, and a star is born in Hugh Jackman's Wolverine. You should get to know Cyclops, Storm, Rogue, Toad, Mystique and the others too! See page 47 for Kim Newman's piece on X-Men

New Ravello™ lightweight, strong, durable, designer luggage by Churchill.

Would you like to proudly own a new 5-piece set at less than half price for just 4 instalments of £49.99

Or, chose a 2-piece upright set for £89.95, or a 3-piece 4-wheel set for £149.95.

All available in metallic silver with silver trim, or new metallic charcoal with tan trim.

Your belongings will have never travelled so smartly, or so protected. Every piece of new Ravello luggage is made from advanced ABS material. The same material that Samsonite cases, costing up to 5 times more, are made from. ABS makes your cases very strong, yet they weigh in at about half the weight as traditional hardshell luggage. A reinforced aluminium frame also adds strength, whilst reducing weight. In fact, due to the weight-saving construction of Ravello luggage you can gain up to an extra 5kg of baggage on your 20kg airline allowance.

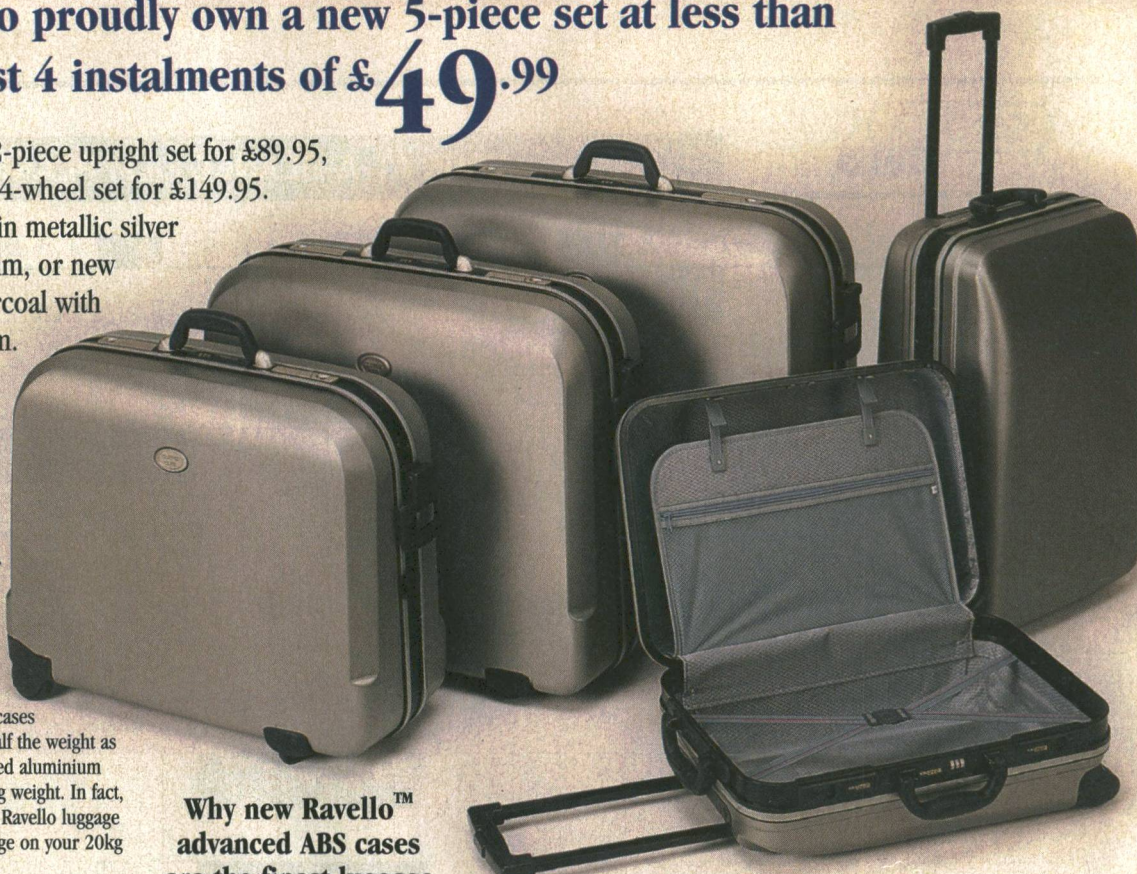

The cases are fully lined (cushioned backed), with a central divider with full-length zipped clear-view mesh pocket, for organised packing. Easy lock/release elasticated tension straps hold your baggage securely. The three piece 4-wheel set also has a quick-release hanging system to allow you to immediately unlatch the hanger, and hang your clothes up at your destination. All cases have a triple lock security system (2 key locks/1 combination lock) for maximum security. The unique textured exterior also makes for easy removal of airline stickers.

In your local department store comparable luggage costs from £80 to £140 for each case. In fact the recommended retail prices of Ravello cases are:- 56cm upright £90, 61cm upright £110, 66cm 4-wheel £115, 74cm 4-wheel £125, 81cm 4-wheel £135. Therefore, at £89.95 for the two-piece upright set you save £110, at £149.95 for the three-piece 4-wheel set you save £225 and at £199.96 for all five pieces you save £375. Buying direct from Churchill, the manufacturer, you save hundreds of pounds. And, talking of savings, to save space both the 2 and 3 piece sets pack into just one case for easy storage. Purchase a new set today, and you'll also enjoy the convenience of having them delivered direct to your door.

New! Exclusive metallic charcoal with tan trim - 5-piece set just £199.96*

* Vanity case shown in picture not included. Available for £29.95

Why new Ravello™ advanced ABS cases are the finest luggage in the World.

1. Toughened fully-rotating metal castor's on the front of the 4-wheel cases allow manoeuvring from side to side as well as forwards and backwards. It's as easy as taking the dog for a walk. Also, all corners are rounded to help minimise any impact damage.

2. Heavy-duty roller wheels on both the 4-wheel and upright models are silent running and maintenance-free. They are protected by snug-fitting reinforced corner mouldings built to withstand knocks and bumps.

3. On the 4-wheel models, there is a spring-loaded handle that allows you to lift and pull the case on the rear wheels. A ring for you to attach the included quick-release lead to, when you wish to pull the case using all four wheels. And lastly, for added strength we have added side latches.

4. Each case is protected by a triple lock security system, embedded directly into the aluminium frame for maximum luggage protection. Also, the handles are large and moulded to fit comfortably into your hand.

5. To guard against your luggage opening, we fit three heavy-duty steel hinges to the spine of the case. This also ensures your case will retain its shape.

6. Fully lined, cushioned backed interiors protect your valuables if the case is dropped.

7. The quick-release, telescopic pull handle is height adjustable, and is fully recessed when not in use.

8. Due to Ravello's timeless classic styling the luggage is equally at home on safari or at The Savoy.

Matching vanity case - just £29.95

Add the stylish 35cm vanity case to any 2,3 or 5-piece set of luggage for just £29.95. Fully lined, with a removable top tray with adjustable mirror, dual latches, a combination lock, ABS and aluminium construction.

Vinyl analysis:
love, music and
the male psyche
in High Fidelity

'I have certain songs that I associate with certain people ... and you really hold on to those songs because they're almost like snapshots in a photo album'

In an article in The Times earlier this year, author Nick Hornby was described as being uncomfortable with fame and happy to allow his work to do the talking.

Much the same could be said of John Cusack, who plays the leading role in the screen adaptation of Hornby's novel High Fidelity.

'People ask me whether I like celebrity culture and I say no. So then they make me a spokesman for anti-celebrity,' 35-year-old Cusack says of his tendency to reveal little of himself when he does agree to talk to the media.

In High Fidelity, Cusack plays Rob Gordon, owner of a floundering record store in a neighbourhood not exactly attractive to window shoppers. The store is frequented mainly by young men in search of Smiths singles and original, rather than re-released, Frank Zappa LPs.

Rob and his two part-time employees, the quiet Dick (Todd Louiso) and the outrageous Barry (Jack Black) are fond of making lists – the Top Five of just about anything. When Rob's girlfriend Laura (Iben Hjejle) suddenly walks out on him, he is prompted to recall his Top Five most painful break-ups. And Hornby perfectly captures how people regard music as the soundtrack to their lives, according to Cusack.

'I mean, I have certain songs that I associate with certain people or certain times of my life,' he says. 'You know, you listen to a song and it all comes flooding back, and you really hold on to those songs because they're almost like snapshots in a photo album.'

'I definitely can relate to that and identify with a lot of what Nick Hornby writes about, as I think most men can. It is kind of mainstream in a lot of ways because people do relate.'

Cusack co-wrote the adaptation of Hornby's novel, moving the setting from London to Chicago, his own hometown, then giving British director Stephen Frears a tour of locations he was convinced would be suitable for filming.

'As soon as I read the book I knew the right geography in Chicago,' Cusack says. 'I knew where Rob would spin records, I knew where he'd go when he was depressed. I just sort of knew exactly where it all fit, so I think probably my knowledge of Chicago made it a very easy, quick choice.

'I've also always wanted to shoot a movie there, so it was nice to be able to do that; it was nice to see the family on the weekends, see my sister [actress Joan Cusack, who also has a small role in the film].'

The movie was shot in the relaxed atmosphere in which Cusack says he thrives.

'I think you can concentrate real hard and still have fun,' he says. 'It's important, especially if you're doing a comedy, to have some fun working and to stay loose so you're available to impulses and to try things.'

'Some people who maybe don't understand acting will see somebody clowning around or whatever – sometimes I throw a football around just to stay loose – and they might think you're not concentrating, but they don't realise you just can't go from a cold standstill and get in front of a camera and do something interesting.'

'One of the reasons I like producing is that you can create an atmosphere where you can let people know, "This is your home when you are here on the set. This is where you get to try things, get to play. This is where you get to take risks and feel safe."'

Hornby goes Hollywood

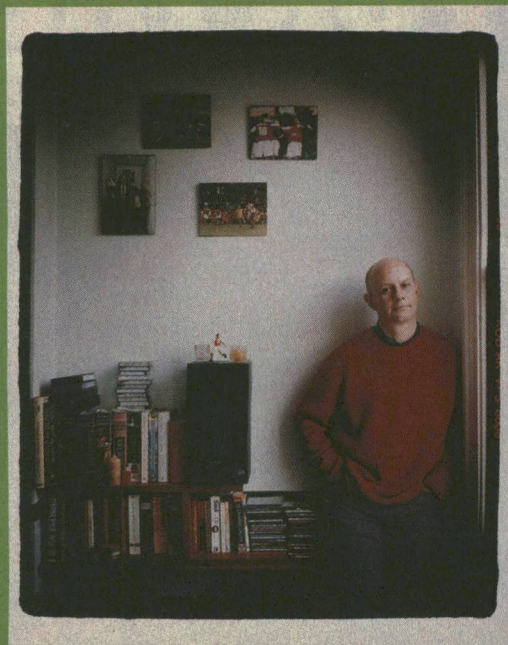

Author Nick Hornby's London-friendly novels for the Thinking Lad are going down a storm Stateside

Hollywood has made Nick Hornby a wealthy man. After setting out simply to make a living and support his family through writing, he now has a second Tinseltown overhaul of one his novels in production. (Hornby himself adapted his first book, the soccercentric Fever Pitch, to the screen for an enjoyable, if low-key, 1997 British movie.) Hornby is said to have been paid £3m for the rights to About a Boy, his follow-up novel to High Fidelity. The film version will star Hugh Grant, Rachel Weisz and Toni Collette, and boasts Robert De Niro among its producers. His latest tome, How to Be Good, is also climbing the bestsellers list. All in all, things are looking pretty good for the British author, who was once said to have quit a job as a newspaper columnist after admitting he had run out of things to write.

Not that his hugely popular books demonstrate a similar paucity of ideas. Indeed, John Cusack says the characters in High Fidelity were so richly drawn by the writer that Cusack and his scriptwriting partners, DV DeVincentis, Steve Pink and Scott Rosenberg, 'could almost transpose a lot of the book right into the screenplay'.

The modest Cusack admits: 'I think a lot of the credit is probably due to Nick Hornby more than us.'

Tinseltown's tough guy

One of the most unlikely success stories of recent years saw hod carrier-turned-football hard man Vinnie Jones score as a film star. Now the former soccer supremo is tackling Hollywood. Interview: Lawrie Masterson

VINNIE JONES ADMITS THE choice he faced was difficult. But when it came to the crunch, he knew exactly which career path to take. After his menacing movie debut as tough guy Big Chris in director Guy Ritchie's Lock, Stock and Two Smoking Barrels, the former hard man of football signed a deal as player-coach at Queens Park Rangers.

But then came a call from Hollywood producer Jerry Bruckheimer, whose blockbusters include Armageddon and The Rock. Would Vinnie be up for another role as a heavy, this time opposite Nicolas Cage and Angelina Jolie in a car heist action film called Gone in 60 Seconds?

'When we filmed Lock, Stock I was actually training up until 1.00pm, then they'd take me straight to the film set and I worked in the evenings and at night,' recalls 36-year-old Jones, who swapped hod-carrying for football, finding most success with south London club Wimbledon and going on to captain Wales. 'I did it really as an adventure,' he says of his role in the hip British gangster flick. 'But then I won five or six awards for best newcomer so, you know, I thought I must have something. Then, just out of the blue, Jerry's office called. I was faced with a massive decision.'

Jones chose to swap the floodlights of English football for the bright lights of Hollywood and moved – one is tempted to say lock, stock and barrel – to Los Angeles.

'I said I'd be based [in LA] for a year and if it goes quite well I'll stay longer. If it doesn't, I'll be walking home,' he says.

Now, he's more likely to be flying first-class, with a limousine meeting him at the other end, because not only has he starred in Gone in 60 Seconds and the Lock, Stock follow-up Snatch, but he also has a role in the current John Travolta summer blockbuster, Swordfish, and now is making an independent movie called Night at the Golden Eagle, starring opposite James Caan and Natasha Lyonne. There has even been talk of him taking the lead in a remake of the Burt Reynolds movie Mean Machine.

His activities on the football pitch these days are limited to an occasional kick around with ex-pat mates such as Rod Stewart and former Sex Pistol Steve Jones, and he tries to keep up with the game via cable TV.

'I just thought if you're going to take acting seriously, you have to be here because you can say to casting agents and directors, "I'll fly over tomorrow," but it doesn't really work,' Jones says.

'I had to live here for six months for Gone in 60 Seconds and I'd have hated not being part of it. It was that old "what might have been" thing, you know? And it turned out to be a good time to have a change of direction in my life, really.'

One thing that didn't change was that Jones continued to be thrown in at the proverbial deep end when he started filming.

'My life has sort of gone that route,' he says, recalling that on his first day on the set of Gone in 60 Seconds he was in the same scene as Cage, Jolie and Robert Duvall, whose acting skills have earned each of them an Oscar.

'But they'd seen Lock, Stock and their warmth towards me, their sort of team spirit, was there from day one and it really helped,' he says.

Warmth? Team spirit? Could this be the same Vinnie Jones whose football career, despite his achievements, forever will be symbolised by that famous photograph of him rather unconventionally marking Paul Gascoigne?

'I wasn't better, I was tougher,' Jones says of his playing days. 'I think I'd probably struggle in football now they've brought in all these tough new rules about tackling from behind and all the rest of it. I mean, I wasn't flavour of the month with the referees at the best of times.'

But perhaps Jones is not as tough as he'd have us think. Australian actor Hugh Jackman, who also co-stars in Swordfish, says he was the target of some ribbing after England beat Australia at rugby during the filming.

Jackman, who plays Wolverine in this month's premiere of X-Men, eventually gave Jones an inflatable Wolverine punching bag.

'I said, "Vinnie, it's time to vent your frustrations on the punching bag before you come to work,"' Jackman says. 'The next thing I knew it had a noose around its neck and was hanging from his trailer, with a Union Jack hanging above it.'

'But we had a great time together,' Jackman continues. 'He's one of the most generous men I've ever met. You know, he has this incredible hard man reputation, but he's such a softie underneath. I mean, don't tell anyone, but he is.'

Kim Newman

With their cool costumed characters, flashy imagery and outlandish plots, comics have long been a rich source of inspiration for films

Comic relief

ONE OF THE REASONS veteran film reviewer Barry Norman cited for his recent retirement from TV was depression over the fact that too many movies were being based on comic books, with even Oscar-types Ang Lee and Sam Mendes 'lowering themselves'.

Bazza obviously hasn't noticed that not all comic-inspired movies are alike, any more than all comics are alike.

Until recently, the pillars of the comic book movie were all from the DC Comics stable, a company conveniently owned by Warner Brothers. Film franchises like Superman and Batman, also done several times on television, tower a little over such purely TV names as Wonder Woman and the Flash, or scrappier little cycles like the various Swamp Thing projects. In the 1990s, there was an upsurge of comics from independent publishers, adapted into the likes of The Crow, The Mask, Mystery Men, Tank Girl, Judge Dredd and, um, Virus – films that either flopped or were only seen by the sort of teenage boys who paint their bedrooms black and fantasise about burning down the school. This means the major modern superhero movies, the Superman and Batman films, are still rooted in the late 1930s, when the characters first appeared – Clark Kent was named after Clark Gable and who even hears of a 'millionaire playboy' these days? These characters are as much a part of American popular culture as Coca-Cola, baseball cards and Mom's apple pie.

But that hasn't been the whole story in American comics since 1961, when Marvel Comics writer/editor Stan Lee and artist/visionary Jack Kirby unleashed the Fantastic Four. In DC's 'super-group' book, the Justice League of America, super-powered individuals were unbelievably nice to each other and Wonder Woman, the second most powerful person in the room, had to take the minutes of the meeting and cheerfully make coffee for lightweights like the Atom and Green Arrow. The Fantastic Four were more like a real family – they quarrelled, threatened to leave, got married, had babies, made stupid mistakes and played jokes on each other. For the first time, a comic book superhero's personality was more important than his or her powers.

Other Marvel franchises followed: Spider-Man, the superhero whose secret identity wasn't a wealthy gadabout but a put-upon high school kid; Iron Man, the first Vietnam veteran hero; the Incredible Hulk, un-jolly green giant who was as much a monster as a hero; and the X-Men, 'the most unusual teenagers of all time' – who came about because Lee was fed up with thinking up original stories for his characters (Spider-Man was 'bitten by a radioactive spider'; the Hulk ran out onto the test site of a gamma bomb to rescue a foolish hot-rodder) and decided to create a race of mutants, kids who got their super-powers because they were born that way.

Marvel has dominated the comic racks for 40 years, but aside from a few cheesy animated TV series, has only recently made the movie big-time.

Since those 70s lightweight Spider-Man and Hulk shows, it's all been forgettable TV films like Dr Strange, Generation X and Nick Fury, Agent of SHIELD (with David Hasselhoff – nuff said). Until the late 1990s, the highest-profile Marvel movie was the disastrous Howard the Duck.

But Blade, the Wesley Snipes-starring vampire-hunter movie, made a dent, and Bryan Singer's X-Men (the first movie really to catch what it is that makes Marvel different from DC) finally established the Lee-Kirby formula of sci-fi plus soap as something that would play in the movies. Up next is Sam Raimi's Spider-Man, with Tobey Maguire, and an X-Men sequel, with Ang Lee's The Incredible Hulk in the works and green lights for everyone from Daredevil to Man-Thing.

Heads up, true believer, it's clobberin' time! CG

ANGELA'S ASHES

Emily Watson, Robert Carlyle
Having enjoyed success with The Commitments, director Alan Parker returns to the Emerald Isle for this faithful adaptation of Frank McCourt's Pulitzer Prize-winning, best-selling memoirs. It's a grim story of poverty in Limerick during the 1930s and 1940s. Robert Carlyle plays the hard-drinking father, while his wife, Angela (Emily Watson), struggles to keep her children alive. The performances, particularly from the three actors who play Frank (Joe Breen, Ciaran Owens and Michael Legge) are exemplary.
Sky Premier, Saturday 4th, 8.00pm

SUMMER OF SAM

John Leguizamo, Mira Sorvino
It's the long, hot summer of 1977, and serial killer the Son of Sam is murdering courting couples across New York. A local community turns vigilante, and the most unlikely characters (including Adrien Brody's wannabe punk) become suspect. A film that's almost as over-heated as the time, but Lee captures the sights and sounds perfectly. Sopranos star Michael Imperioli, who cameos as a seedy strip club owner, co-wrote the movie and is also an executive producer.

Sky Premier, Tuesday 7th, 10.00pm

THE WAR OF THE ROSES

Michael Douglas
Douglas and Turner are miles from their Romancing the Stone personae here as the rich couple whose marriage collapse turns into a battle for nothing more than property in this bitterly funny comedy. It's extremely well directed by Danny DeVito, who also plays the lawyer narrating events.
Sky Cinema, Sunday 5th, 10.00pm

HANNAH AND HER SISTERS

Mia Farrow, Michael Caine
One of Woody Allen's warmest comedies, even if its subject, the neuroses of middle-class New Yorkers, isn't exactly new. The action focuses on actress Mia Farrow, her husband Michael Caine, who's fallen for her sister Barbara Hershey, and their flaky sibling Dianne Wiest. Allen, Caine and Wiest each won an Oscar for their efforts.

HOUSE ON HAUNTED HILL

Geoffrey Rush, Famke Janssen
A gruesome remake of a 1958 Vincent Price horror film, this time round it's Geoffrey Rush playing the tycoon who offers guests $1m to spend the night in a former asylum. His wife (Famke Janssen) has her own intentions for the evening, but the house has other plans. Horror fans will have fun spotting the other movie references.

Fans of the Hungarian-born movie-maker and special-effects master have a feast in store this month with some of Pal's finest moments. Particularly worth noting are the charming musical fantasy Tom Thumb (pictured), with Russ Tamblyn at his best; The Wonderful World of the Brothers Grimm, starring Laurence Harvey; and the exceedingly curious Seven Faces of Dr Lao, starring a never-better Tony Randall in several guises as the circus owner who saves a western town. HOLLYWOOD MADE THEM THE MOST FAMOUS SYMBOLS OF LAW AND ORDER IN THE WORLD

Announcing the exciting launch of The Authentic US Police Badge Collection

For decades the American police badge has been the ultimate symbol of law and order. Countless Hollywood films have immortalised its great fame. And now, with the exciting launch of The Authentic US Police Badge Collection, you can have the pleasure of collecting and owning the definitive range of classic US badges.

Perfect reproductions- gold or silver plated

Nowhere else will you find such a fine, technically accurate collection. There is the famous octagonal New York State Police badge as carried by officers in America's largest and most dangerous city...Beverly Hills' imposing 'eagle and wreath' design in glorious gold and blue...and Oregon's 5-pointed star badge which is reminiscent of so many western movies.

There is a total of 50 badges in the collection - one from each of the 50 US states. Each is gold or silver plated and has been painstakingly reproduced to be accurate in both colour and detail. This means all the badges you own will be exactly the same as those worn by America's law enforcement officers. The only difference is scale. In addition, each and every badge is despatched with a numbered Certificate of Authenticity - valuable proof to you that it is 100% genuine.

PICK OF THE DAY

by Sally O'Shaughnessy

Delia's How to Cook 2 UK Style 9.00pm

Nobody inspires kitchen confidence quite like British cookery queen Delia Smith. In the second of this series, filmed in the familiar surroundings of her conservatory kitchen, she sets out to demystify both simple and advanced cookery techniques. In the first episode, she runs through the essential ingredients of every good cook's store cupboard and then rustles up some Thai noodles with shrimp, an oriental spiced pork casserole and a ginger cake with lemon icing.

PICK OF THE DAY

Narrated by Judi Dench

This Oscar-winning documentary relates the heart-breaking tale of Jewish children whose parents sent them away to foreign countries (mostly Great Britain) just before the outbreak of World War II to keep them safe from persecution. A cruel Nazi directive allowed only children under 17 to leave Germany. Narrated by Judi Dench, the film features real-life testimonies from these now elderly evacuees, some of whom were never to see their parents again.

PICK OF THE DAY

Angela's Ashes Sky Premier 8.00pm

Emily Watson, Robert Carlyle, Pauline McLynn
A harrowing tale of poverty and prejudice in 1930s Ireland, this adaptation of Frank McCourt's Pulitzer Prize-winning autobiography is faithfully told by director Alan Parker. Robert Carlyle shines as McCourt's doomed father who returns from America to Limerick only to find he and his family have been driven to destitution by prejudice against his Protestant background. Emily Watson wrings out the emotion as his long-suffering but ever-loving Catholic wife.

PICK OF THE DAY

Mercenaries

Bravo 8.30pm, 4.30am

Computer games guru Jason Bradbury has devised and now presents a new military gameshow. Two squads of fortune-hungry soldiers battle it out, using war game software to compete for prizes rather than honour, in a military campaign that is linked by a narrative. Using state-of-the-art gaming technology, the two teams are sent on missions to such mind-boggling locations as the fjords of Norway, a Manhattan tower block wired to explode or a recreation of the infamous Iranian Embassy siege.

PICK OF THE DAY

Young Guns Go For It – The Smiths
UK Horizons 9.30pm

This new series profiles some of the most influential bands of the 1980s and today it's Manchester band The Smiths in the spotlight. The combination of Morrissey's wistful tales of British alienation allied with Johnny Marr's gift for songwriting made them one of the beacons of alternative music for their generation. In this revealing documentary the band sadly spend much of the film explaining and arguing over money matters. Johnny Marr, Mike Joyce and Andy Rourke are all interviewed but, tellingly, no Moz.

PICK OF THE DAY

Blondie: Beneath the Bleach
UK Horizons 9.00pm

There are not many bands that can disappear for a period of 16 years and immediately notch up a string of hits on their return, but Blondie are no ordinary pop band. For one thing, Debbie Harry gave up her career to nurse seriously ill band mate Chris Stein at the height of the band's success in 1982. In this new documentary, band members Debbie Harry, Chris Stein, Jimmy Destri and Clem Burke talk about the past and the future. Look out for contributions from Talking Heads and The Velvet Underground.

Brad Pitt, Jason Statham, Vinnie Jones
Lock, Stock and Two Smoking Barrels director and Madonna's huddle Guy Ritchie follows his hit British gangster comedy with another London crime caper laced with black humour. Brad Pitt sports a dodgy Irish accent, playing a gypsy bare-knuckle fighter caught up in the criminal underworld connected with the boxing fraternity, while Vinnie Jones reprises his hard-nut persona as a ruthless villain. Along the way there's crime, jewel theft, gypsies and man-eating pigs.

PICK OF THE DAY

American Beauty Sky Premier 10.00pm, 2.55am

Kevin Spacey, Annette Bening, Thora Birch
Renowned theatre director Sam Mendes made his Hollywood directorial debut with this Oscar-laden satire on American middle-class life. Spacey turns in one of his best performances to date as Lester Burnham, a middle-aged, successful advertising executive who suddenly realises his life has no meaning. To his wife (Bening) and daughter's (Birch) horror, he chucks in his job to begin a new one in a fast-food restaurant, starts working out and pursues one of his daughter's friends.

PICK OF THE DAY

The Trial UK Horizons 9.00pm

A chance to compare real-life courtroom dramas here and in America was created in 1994, when cameras were allowed into British courtrooms for the first time. The first case, from Edinburgh High Court, follows the trial of a man accused of battering another to death. With no witnesses and no apparent motive, it'll be difficult to prosecute. Then contrast UK law with Boston Law, a series narrated by Helen Mirren, which goes behind the scenes with the city's 130 district attorneys who handle some 50,000 cases a year.

PICK OF THE DAY

Fear Factor Sky One 8.00pm

The final episode of the American series, hosted by Joe Rogan, in which six daredevil contestants are faced with some of the most fearsome challenges, known to any sadistic television producer, in order to win $50,000. Stunts so far include being dragged at 35mph behind galloping horses and being immersed into the unholy stench of the rat pit. 'Given that rats tend to run to corners,' says producer Rich Brown gleefully, 'we did our best to make the dimensions of the pit as tight as possible.'

PICK OF THE DAY

The Sopranos E4 10.00pm, 2.00am

James Gandolfini's portrayal of a New Jersey mob boss juggling his outwardly opulent family life with his grisly job continues to make compelling viewing in this award-winning series. Today, Tony (Gandolfini) is off to buy a new Mercedes but is rather more taken with the sales assistant (Annabella Sciorra). Meanwhile, he and Christopher (Michael Imperioli) are keeping up appearances - Tony buying a sapphire ring for his wife, Carmela (Edie Falco), on her birthday and Christopher giving Adriana (Drea de Matteo) her own music club.

PICK OF THE DAY

The Gold Wars The History Channel 9.00pm

A new four-part documentary series which charts the sweeping story of how one rare metal became the universal language of wealth and power, how it defined our destiny and how it has fascinated mankind since the beginning of time. The first episode looks at history's violent gold wars and how they have shaped events, from the Spanish conquistadors lead by Pizarro and Cortés who looted the gold reserves of the Native Indian cultures they defeated, to Adolf Hitler's secret cache of stolen plunder.

PICK OF THE DAY

Pioneer Quest UK Horizons 10.00pm

What makes this American reality survival series different from the rest? Filthy lucre, that's what. Offered $100,000 if they could endure a year living like 19th-century settlers, two couples were sent off to Canada to make their very own little houses on the prairie. With only primitive tools and the rugged conditions of the Canadian heartland to contend with, existence was harsh and the experience was no picnic. See what made this one of the highest-rating US television shows ever by tuning into this UK premiere.

PICK OF THE DAY

The Bone Collector
Sky Premier 10.00pm, 2.05am
Denzel Washington, Angelina Jolie, Queen Latifah
In this crime thriller, Denzel Washington and Angelina Jolie form an unlikely alliance on the trail of a serial killer. Washington plays a paralysed forensics expert Lincoln Rhyme, who is more interested in planning his assisted suicide than catching killers. That is, until he comes across a particularly nasty serial killer who leaves his victims to die in terrible ways. With a keen young policewoman (Jolie) at his side, Rhyme's waning enthusiasm for his job is reawakened.

PICK OF THE DAY

TOTP2 Presents the 90s
Play UK 1.00pm, 7.00pm

A bank holiday celebration of the best music of the 1990s includes this selection presented by Steve Wright, an ironic choice perhaps, as that decade was not a high point in his career (he left his beloved Radio 1 due to pressure from BBC bosses to ring the changes). In this special edition of TOTP2, Wright looks back at some of its biggest hits and artists, including the likes of Michael Jackson, Pulp's Jarvis Cocker, Shania Twain, the Gallagher brothers from Oasis, Take That, Bryan Adams, Madonna and many more.

PICK OF THE DAY

Star Trek E4 6.00pm

It boldly went where no television sci-fi series had gone before. The original 1960s series of space exploration and adventure, Star Trek, which ran from 1966 to 1969, was the first to ever include a black woman in a position of authority. Despite cheap sets and William Shatner's incredibly hammy performance as Captain James T Kirk, the series continues to pull a fanatical audience. Here's a chance to enjoy the original series following the adventures of the starship Enterprise on its mission through outer space.

PICK OF THE DAY

Blue Velvet
Carlton Cinema 11.00pm
Kyle MacLachlan, Isabella Rossellini, Dennis Hopper
This cult thriller directed by David Lynch delves beneath the seemingly idyllic surface of an American suburban town. A young man (MacLachlan) is plunged into a bizarre, nightmarish world after he makes a shocking discovery that leads to a series of disturbing events involving a lounge singer (Rossellini) and a violent psychopath (Hopper). Darkly erotic cinematography and Hopper's terrifying inhaler scene leave long-lasting memories.

Stam duty

Towering Manchester United defender Jaap Stam tells Jeremy Butler he believes the Premiership titans are bound for even more glory this season

MANCHESTER UNITED DEFENDER Jaap Stam has no intention of sitting back and resting on his laurels this season, despite having won the Premiership every year since arriving at Old Trafford from PSV in 1998.

The big Dutchman has already set out his target for the new campaign and top of his hit list is another Champions League medal.

Stam, who this month celebrates the publication of his book Head to Head, helped United to football's most prestigious club trophy during his debut season at Old Trafford to go along with a domestic double.

But in the past two seasons the Reds have disappointingly been knocked out at the quarter-final stage, first by Real Madrid and then Bayern Munich, and the pain of those defeats still lingers with Stam.

He says: 'Having won the Champions League, we all know at United what a great feeling it can bring. People may have been saying we are not hungry enough to win it again but I have to disagree. The feeling you get by winning that Cup is such a high that everyone at this club is desperate to sample it again.'

'United are still a very good team and we're capable of taking on and beating the best sides in Europe. I would even put us up there in the top level of teams competing in the Cup.'

The Reds' hunt for glory has been boosted by the arrival of Stam's former PSV team-mate Ruud van Nistelrooy this summer.

Manager Sir Alex Ferguson paid more than £19m for the Dutch international striker and Stam expects he will give the Reds' already dangerous frontline an even better cutting-edge.

'Ruud is a very good finisher and when the ball drops he has just one thought on his mind and that's putting it in the back of the net,' adds Stam. 'He has scored a lot of goals in the Dutch League but of course the Premiership, and Champions League, are going to be a lot harder for him. But once he's adapted to the different pace of the game he has the potential to score plenty of goals for United.'

While van Nistelrooy is banging in the goals at one end, Stam is convinced his growing partnership with Wes Brown will ensure the door remains slammed shut at the back.

He believes Brown is capable of growing into one of England's top defenders, especially now he is adding experience to his talent. 'There are already some top class centre-halves, like Rio Ferdinand, around, but I rate Wes.'

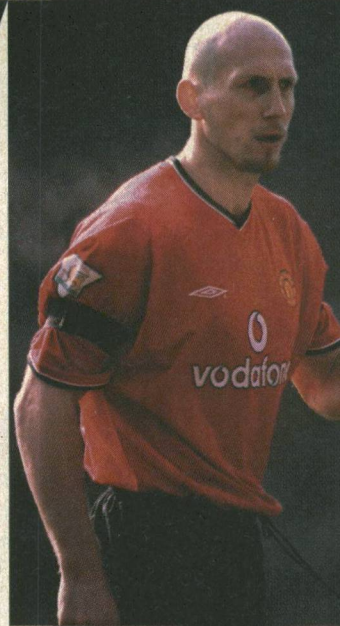

'If he keeps improving like he is I think he will be a regular in the England squad for the next decade,' Stam continues. 'The best thing about Wes is his willingness to learn. Already for a player of his age Wes has achieved plenty but despite that, he is keen to learn how his game can improve.'

The duo will be the backbone of a side desperate to give Ferguson the perfect send-off when he retires as manager next summer.

'The gaffer has been great to work with since I came to the club and what a lot of people don't realise is that he always encourages us to have fun. He's going to be very hard to replace, but before he goes I would like to think there will be some more silverware for him to enjoy.'

United open their campaign with the visit of Fulham, a game to be screened live on Sky Sports on Sunday 19. And Stam adds: 'They may have been a first division side last year but they have plenty of talent and a good manager [Jean Tigana].'

'We have beaten them twice in cup games in the past couple of seasons, but that will not make any difference going into this match.'

FOOTBALL FORECAST

As the new football season kicks off, Jeff Stelling, the host of Sky Sports' Soccer Saturday, makes his predictions for the Premiership campaign ahead

MANCHESTER UNITED

Ground: Old Trafford
Manager: Sir Alex Ferguson
Position last season: Premier League Champions

'As this is Sir Alex Ferguson's last campaign in charge, Man U are more or less certs for the title. It may not be as clear-cut this year as it's been in the past, but they'll want to send him off on a high – and if they don't feel that way now, I'm sure the lash of Fergie's tongue, if things aren't going exactly to plan, will soon change matters. So the final-season factor will make them red-hot favourites.'

LIVERPOOL

Ground: Anfield
Manager: Gerard Houllier
Position last season: 3rd

'The Merseysiders are potential challengers for the title. But my biggest worry about them this season is that, while they've got a terrific squad on paper, they've also got to cope with Champions League football as well. They've got no experience in trying to dovetail the two together and it could take its toll. We might see a lot more of Houllier's mixing and matching in a bid to cope.'

ARSENAL

Ground: Highbury
Manager: Arsène Wenger
Position last season: 2nd

'Arsenal have got problems. Everyone's getting older and there have been unsettled players. They've signed Sol Campbell but – and I'm sticking my neck out here – I think Arsenal will have a disappointing season and might be hard pushed to finish higher than fourth or fifth.'

TOTTENHAM HOTSPUR

Ground: White Hart Lane
Manager: Glenn Hoddle
Position last season: 12th

'Teddy Sheringham will have a terrific season under Hoddle. As has been said before, there's no worry about Sheringham losing a yard of pace, as he gets older, because he never had that extra yard of pace to lose. It's his intelligence that will shine through for Spurs. But it will be a season of consolidation for the team.'

CHELSEA

Ground: Stamford Bridge
Manager: Claudio Ranieri
Position last season: 6th

'Time will tell about Chelsea's new signing, Petit. The jury's out on him. Terrific at Arsenal, not a success in Spain – and you have to ask yourself, "Why?" And it's worth remembering that when he was at Arsenal, he was viewed as quite an unsettling influence. Frank Lampard will be a really good buy for Chelsea, but they have to make an impact very quickly. And they have to find their form on the road. I see them maybe in the top half-dozen, but not Championship material.'

LEEDS UNITED

Ground: Elland Road
Manager: David O'Leary
Position last season: 4th

'The biggest threat to Man U. They're going to be disappointed that they're not in the Champions League, but it does ease the burden on them. They've got money to spend, and, if they can get off to a better start than they did last season, when they had a terrible time, and have a few more of their name players fit early on, then they can be a real threat – especially with all the experience they've gained over the last few years.'

WEST HAM UNITED

Ground: Upton Park
Manager: Glenn Roeder
Position last season: 15th

'Any side that's lost Rio Ferdinand and Frank Lampard, has a bunch of unhappy players and a new manager without any Premiership experience is asking for trouble – and I think they could get it big time. Unless there is some major investment, I can see them getting relegated. I fear for them, which is a shame, because they're one of my favourite clubs. But there seems to have been a lot of corner-cutting at the club.'

LEICESTER CITY

Ground: Filbert Street
Manager: Peter Taylor
Position last season: 13th

'It will be interesting to see how they start; they need to start how they got under way last season and not how they finished. The Wycombe cup upset seemed to destroy their confidence, although there were signs of them wobbling before that. Peter Taylor will have to rebuild his reputation a little bit. But you don't go from being one of the most highly talented coaches in the country to being a bad one over night. New buy Dennis Wise could be the key.'

IPSWICH TOWN

Ground: Portman Road
Manager: George Burley
Position last season: 5th

'Last season was probably as good as it's going to get for Ipswich, but the merchants of gloom could be wrong again. I could see them finishing in the top 10. There's no reason why they shouldn't be better players after their first year back in the Premiership. George Burley is tactically astute, he buys well, and it won't be so difficult for him to attract players – whereas nobody wanted to go to Ipswich last season.'

CHARLTON ATHLETIC

Ground: The Valley
Manager: Alan Curbishley
Position last season: 9th

'They've established themselves in the Premiership and there's no worries about next season. The key for them was obviously keeping Curbishley. He's a terrific manager and has a good team working for him – it seems everybody is happy and content. He's bought wisely and more teams are going to leave the Valley empty-handed than they are with three points. I think they'll be rock solid again and will be looking at mid-table – but there's always a chance of them sneaking into Europe.'

NEWCASTLE UNITED

Ground: St James' Park
Manager: Bobby Robson
Position last season: 11th

'They've got to have a better season for the sake of the fans. I'm not sure that the buys have been inspirational so far – certainly not what the fans are used to. Craig Bellamy has got it all to prove at Premiership level. But if Shearer's fit again – OK, he's not the force that he once was – and if Dyer's fit, then they've got the nucleus of a decent side. I don't think they'll be in trouble, but I can't see them finishing better than half-way.'

SOUTHAMPTON

Ground: Friends Provident
St Mary's Stadium
Manager: Stuart Gray
Position last season: 10th

'They wasted so much valuable time in appointing a new manager – who's going to have his work cut out anyway. And then you need to bear in mind that the Saints don't have the Dell this season. They've moved to a lovely new ground, but it always counted for something extra for them playing at the Dell. And I think they're going to miss Hoddle and his tactical acumen like crazy. Stuart Gray might be a good coach, but I think they are taking a big gamble, as it is critical for them to survive now they've got the new ground. I'm not convinced they will.'

EVERTON

Ground: Goodison Park
Manager: Walter Smith
Position last season: 16th

'Everton survived by the skin of their teeth last season and Walter Smith has been told that he's got to raise a small fortune in transfer fees. So, inevitably, this season is going to be just as difficult as the last few campaigns. They used to be a big club – but in terms of their Premiership finishes they're not. I think they'll be in the relegation battle right through the season. But if they can get 20 games out of Duncan Ferguson, then they might be in with a chance.'

DERBY COUNTY

Ground: Pride Park
Manager: Jim Smith
Position last season: 17th

'I can't see them setting the world alight but I can see them having a better season. They've got a lot of players with a lot of promise – Seth Johnson, Christie, Riggot, who I like a lot. And if they can flourish, then I think Derby will be relatively secure. But they need to find someone other than Christie to score goals for them. Smith's assistant, Colin Todd, made a big difference when he arrived there last season, and with a full season – who knows?

ASTON VILLA

Ground: Villa Park
Manager: John Gregory
Position last season: 8th
'An annual puzzle, Aston Villa, aren't they? You usually think they can have a good season, but I have to say that last season I never really felt that. Their star players are either getting older or are unsettled – Dion Dublin, David Ginola, who should have been a star there. And I'm not convinced about the calibre of the people who have been brought in. I can see another season of disappointment for Villa. Probably no better than mid-table.'

MIDDLESBROUGH

Ground: Riverside Stadium
Manager: Steve McClaren
Position last season: 14th
'Must do better, and will do better. But it's not guaranteed that Steve McLaren will become an accomplished manager, though he's certainly got the background for it and the contacts. I think Boro desperately needed a change. With some fresh faces and a good start to the season, they'll do a lot better. I know that on Teesside, everybody is behind McLaren – they all think he's a fantastic signing, so they will have massive crowd support.'

SUNDERLAND

Ground: The Stadium of Light
Manager: Peter Reid
Position last season: 7th
'When you achieve what Peter Reid achieved at Sunderland so quickly, then expectations are raised so much that people are disappointed when you don't make Europe – although it was by the skin of their teeth – and when Kevin Phillips gets only 15 goals instead of 30! Reidy gets criticised because he's slow to change things and that the team only have one way to play, through Niall Quinn. But if it ain't broke, why fix it?

FULHAM

Ground: Craven Cottage
Manager: Jean Tigana
Position last season: Division One Champions
'They play Man U on the opening day, which is not a bad day to play them. I think United will be thinking, "Crikey, we could have done with someone other than a newly promoted side who want to prove themselves." They play good football and they've got a tactically talented manager; there's money to patch up any holes if they appear. It's hard not to see them having a decent season.'

BLACKBURN ROVERS

Ground: Ewood Park
Manager: Graeme Souness
Position last season: Division One runners-up
'Graeme Souness will be desperate to prove himself again as a Premiership manager. They came on really strongly in the second half of last season in Division One. They've got some terrific players – the likes of Damien Duff – and they've got a real hunger at Blackburn, because that's what Souness instils in them, and that will carry them a long way. I worry about them defensively a shade, though. But I'm sure Souness is aware of any deficiencies, and again they've got money to patch up any problems.'

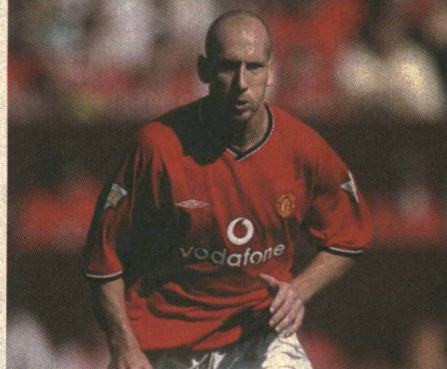

BOLTON WANDERERS

Ground: Reebok Stadium
Manager: Sam Allardyce
Position last season: Division One play-off winners
'I worry a lot about Bolton. Sam Allardyce is one of my favourite men in football, so, for his sake, I'd love them to do well. But I just can't see it. Unlike the other two promoted sides, they haven't got the money and, worse than that, over the years they've had to sell their best players. Bearing that in mind it was nothing short of a miracle that Sam got them up.'

It might be foolish to expect anything other than the usual two-horse race in the Scottish Premiership this season, but there's sure to be plenty of drama elsewhere in the table.

Words: Desmond Kane

SCOTLAND'S YARD

IF THERE IS ONE certainty about the forthcoming season in Scotland, it is that Celtic are unlikely to improve on last year's achievements.

In Martin O'Neill's first season as manager, they won the SPL title, the League Cup and Scottish Cup to become the first Celtic side in 32 years to achieve the domestic treble.

This term is unlikely to prove so straightforward, with Glasgow rivals Rangers and the rest of Scotland's top flight more familiar with the faces in O'Neill's side.

Indeed, the biggest challenge for Celts will be successfully defending their much-cherished league crown, while making strides in the Champions League.

In Swedish phenomenon Henrik Larsson, Celtic possess Europe's top goalscorer with 53 goals, and, as such, see the Continent's top competition as the biggest test of their talents.

They will, however, face a renewed threat from Dick Advocaat's Rangers at home.

The Ibrox club is still smarting from surrendering the Scottish title, and have been busy enhancing their squad for the season ahead.

Argentina's former World Cup striker Claudio Caniggia has been signed from Dundee, while German international Christian Nerlinger has also been added to their squad from Borussia Dortmund.

And Nerlinger insists he is desperate for some success with his new club.

He said: 'When I heard about Rangers' interest I didn't have to think about it for long. Other clubs were interested, but I only wanted to concentrate on Rangers. For me, it is really important that this club play for titles and want to win.'

Apart from the big two, Hibernian are also aiming to emulate an excellent season in which they finished third in the Scottish Premier League and reached the Scottish Cup final.

The Edinburgh club have displayed ambitions to challenge the Old Firm by signing Ecuador defender Ulises de la Cruz in a club record £700,000 deal, and Bosnian Alen Orman from Belgian side Royal Antwerp.

They are also boosted by the fact Alex McLeish remains manager after being touted as a possible summer replacement for Harry Redknapp at West Ham.

Other sides likely to make an impact this season include Kilmarnock who, along with Hibs, will represent Scotland in the UEFA Cup.

The Ayrshire side are one of Scotland's more consistent performers and are certainly exciting to watch.

Dundee and Dundee United showed signs of improvement last season and both should challenge for a top six place, while newly promoted Livingston should provide a few upsets during the season.

The West Lothian club have signed Gary Bolland and Nathan Lowndes from SPL opponents St Johnstone under the Bosman ruling, and will provide a stern challenge at their compact Almondvale ground. CG

England v Holland

Wednesday 15th, 7.00pm, SK2

An England-Holland international will always have special significance following the Euro 96 clash which was played at the height of Three Lions fever during that memorable tournament. England went on to win 4-1 in that classic encounter – a scoreline that would be most welcome tonight at White Hart Lane for Sven-Göran Eriksson's sixth match in charge. His team and system seem to be taking root and such classy opposition will provide another solid test on the way to World Cup qualification.

MARAT SAFIN

TENNIS

US Open

Monday 27th-Friday 31st, 1.00pm, 4.00pm, 12.30am, SK2

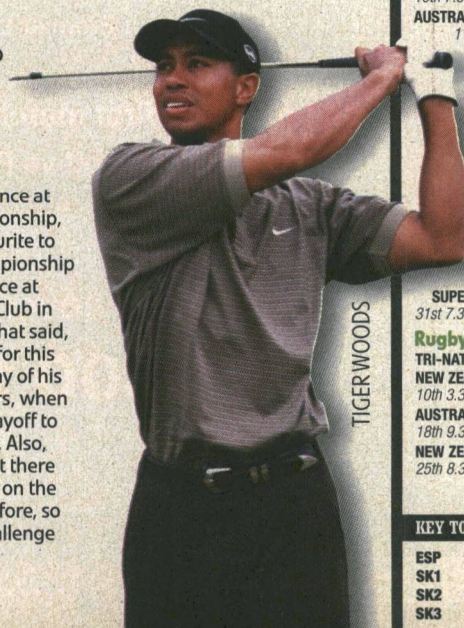

Emerging tennis stars often shine their brightest at the US Open in New York's Flushing Meadows. Last year, one of those stars – Marat Safin of Russia – stormed to the men's title and unofficially ended the Pete Sampras era. While in the women's game, Venus Williams was the champion and re-reinforced the belief that she can win any tournament she really wants.

GOLF

PGA Championship

Thursday 16th-Sunday 19th, see listings for times, SK2

Despite Tiger Woods' below-par performance at the US Open Championship, he remains the favourite to retain the PGA Championship title, which takes place at the Atlantic Athletic Club in Georgia this week. That said, Tiger fought harder for this title last year than any of his other string of majors, when it took a dramatic playoff to dispatch of Bob May. Also, it's worth noting that there are more Europeans on the US Tour than ever before, so the international challenge will be strong.

TIGER WOODS

Lancashire v Yorkshire

Tuesday 7th and Wednesday 8th, SK1, Thursday 9th and Friday 10th, SK3, 11.00am, 1.45pm
Lancashire against Yorkshire is always one of the most eagerly anticipated of the County Championship games, but even more so this year as the counties have occupied the top two spots in the First Division for much of the season. Yorkshire are without a County Championship since 1967, while Lancashire have not won it outright since before WWII, so the gloves will be off at Old Trafford during these four days.

In the first of his monthly columns for Cable Guide, one of the most respected managers in football, looks forward to the campaign ahead, ponders the problem of away-day blues and thinks of England

ALAN CURBISHLEY

Curbishley calls the SHOTS

THE ACCEPTED WISDOM IS that a promoted side's second season in the Premiership is more difficult than the first. I think that will be true this season – because the League will be tougher.

Of the three sides coming up this year, Fulham and Blackburn have got the financial muscle to be bigger spenders than many clubs in the Premiership. As newly promoted sides they obviously want to stay there – but they will need to have strong squads to do so.

The key to our success last season was that we had a squad that was strong enough to absorb all the injuries that occurred. In the centre forward position alone we lost Andy Hunt, Martin Pringle and Clive Mendonca; for a long period we were without captain Mark Kinsella; we lost our keeper, Dean Kiely; our top scorer Jonatan Johansson missed a third of the season with cartilage problems. So you have to factor in injuries. People could probably name nine or 10 players in the Ipswich team, but they might be hard pushed to put names to ours because it changed so much.

A newly promoted side also has the benefit of the element of surprise: Ipswich had it last season, and perhaps we did, too.

George Burley's side did fantastically well. They played some great football. And the major thing was they had excellent away form. All the London Premiership clubs, on the other hand, had difficulties on the road, and that's a tough problem for a manager to address.

As far as we were concerned, we perhaps felt a bit sorry for ourselves and that we'd played better than the results suggested. Then we got hammered 5-0 at West Ham on Boxing Day and we knew we had to change our outlook. We decided that, away from home, we should simply set out not to get beat – as opposed to hoping we'd win. Straight after that game we went to Maine Road and beat Manchester City 4-1. The players didn't try any harder, but they had a different attitude. There are significant moments in every season, and West Ham, Boxing Day, was a turning point for us.

I think Charlton are perceived differently after our success last season – we've gained some respect. Ten years ago, when we were playing in front of 4000 people while sharing Upton Park with West Ham, I would never have imagined that we'd be in the Premiership with a 27,000-capacity all-seater stadium and eight or nine international players.

And speaking of international matters, you can see England play Holland this month on Sky Sports. I was a bit disappointed with the FA organising an international friendly three days before the season starts. But we all want the best for the country, so let's hope it's worthwhile.

I think Sven-Göran Eriksson has demonstrated that he's not afraid to pick players on merit. And that's exactly what happened to our left-back Chris Powell when he was called up. The only disappointment for me with Chrissie is that I think he was a bit reserved in his England games and went along thinking, 'I don't want to make any mistakes.' He can perform a lot better and I'd like to think, if he is given his chance again, he will really go for it.

There has been talk before of me becoming involved with England. When Kevin Keegan left, everyone was running around, panicking, trying to find a new manager. The FA's idea was to have three or four people involved on the fringes of the England team, to see if they liked it and were compatible with the set-up, and then, if the team were suddenly without a manager again, they would have someone to approach.

But Steve McLaren and Peter Taylor got involved with the full squad, and in the shuffle, I was left out a little bit. The Charlton chairman, Richard Murray, saw Peter coming in for criticism whenever Leicester had a poor result, and he decided he was going to call it all off and make sure that everyone was concentrating on Charlton. That's how it is at the moment. But it's up to the FA: if they want to pursue the situation, they need to get on with it and put a proposal forward. Obviously, my first priority is the club, though – and I don't want anything to get in the way of that.
